Slashes Daughter to Prevent Wedding

FATHER'S SPITE MAY END HER LIFE

While Mary Martin of Somerville planned her wedding, which was to be on Thanksgiving Day, her father fed the flame of hatred for Peter Jardine, who had won her heart. And as Mary dreamed of her love nest her father made up his mind he would not let her go. So he took his razor, and while she slept he slashed her throat. Then he tried to kill himself the same way.

MADDENED FATHER CUTS GIRL'S THROAT AND THEN HIS OWN

On Thanksgiving afternoon nineteen-year-old Mary Martin was to become the bride of Peter Jardine in Somerville, but today Mary was awakened by the slash of a razor across her throat—a razor wielded by her father in a frenzy because she soon would leave his home.

Now both Mary and her father, Tony Martin, forty-five, are dying at the Somerville Hospital, to which they were rushed from the Martin home at No. 41 Dane avenue, Somerville.

For weeks the lit of happiness has been in Mary's voice and a flush of joy has dyed her cheeks, for Peter Jardine, six years her senior, had asked the question at last and they had set Thanksgiving as the day.

Happy excitement pervaded the Martin household and all its members—except the father.

A dark mood had fallen upon him. for Mary, his eldest born, was going to another. To neighbors he confided gloomily that he could not stand her going, and to [illegible] world today, he declared he had found some way of keeping Mary with him.

They laughed at the father and his mood, according to the police information: laughed at him as a sentimentalist—and let it go at that.

Both Martin, the father, and Jardine, the lover, work at the foundry of the American Tube Works in Somerville avenue.

Up to a year ago Jardine roomed

HERE'S KIP DRESSED TO HIS VERY BEST

KIP'S WIFE SOBS, BUT SHE REVEALS COLOR OF BODY TO JURORS

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The two "mystery" letters whose introduction in the Rhinelander annulment trial caused two adjournments and rumors that the case would be settled out of court to keep them from being made public, were placed on the record today.

They were read before a courtroom that had been emptied of all but two women, the latter being newspaperwomen permitted to remain by the court. Both the letters were written from the Cliff Hotel in San Francisco in 1922 and were concerned with the pre-marital relations of Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a negro hack driver, and Leonard Kip Rhinelander, wealthy young society man, who is seeking annulment of their marriage.

The letters have been the centre of great mystery in the case, beginning last week when Isaac N. Mills, counsel for young Rhinelander, asked for a recess of several days to give him an opportunity to investigate them. They have been regarded as trump cards by Lee Parsons Davis, counsel for the defendant.

Written by Leonard they were held by the defence to offset the effect of Alice's letters read at the beginning of the trial. Their contents

NATION'S 'DANGER' IS DEFENSE OF MITCHELL

Washington, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—Colonel William Mitchell, stormy petrel of aviation, issued his sensational attacks upon the conduct of America's national defense in order to warn the American people that the nation is at the mercy of enemy powers, because of pitiful weakness in the air.

This was the personal defense raised by the Flying Colonel today when he took the witness stand before his court-martial of generals.

Discussing aerial torpedoes, controlled by radio from airplane or airship, Mitchell said:

"In an enemy airship came within 100 miles of New York there is no question but that every shot would hit an area like New York. The torpedoes could easily be controlled as the airship could easily

FEARS FOR COOLIDGE

Plymouth, Vt., Nov. 23.—Gloom, that was not caused by the weather alone, enwrapped the little white farmhouse of Colonel John Coolidge today, for the President's father lay upstairs in bed, vastly weakened by new attacks of heart block.

There was no hiding the fact today that Major James F. Coupal, personal physician to President Coolidge, and Dr. Albert M. Cram of Bridgewater, are alarmed over the Colonel's condition.

The new attacks of heart block began yesterday and weakened Colonel Coolidge considerably—so much so that not even the wife and son-in-law of Attorney-General Sargent were allowed to see him.

BULLARD HEADS STREET RAILWAY TRUSTEES

George P. Bullard of Newton was today elected chairman of the Board of Public Trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., succeeding Arthur G. Wadleigh of Lynn, who will continue as a member of the board. Mr. Bullard, who is president of the West Newton Bank, has had an extended business career in building construction, hardware and iron and steel lines. He was house chairman of the legislative committee on railroads in 1901 and 1902 and has served in both branches of the Newton City government.

CONGRESS ST. PLANT CLOSED; FEAR COLLAPSE

Fearing a collapse of the building, Acting Building Commissioner John H. Mahoney today ordered work suspended in the old-time printing plant of the C. H. Simonds Co., No. 297 Congress street.

Fred R. and Dana Estes, owners of the property, and their architect will confer with the commissioner tomorrow morning, with a view either to strengthening or renovating the building.

STOCKS IN SLUMP FROM 6 TO 9 POINTS

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Stock prices crumbled sharply in the final hour of today's trading, when selling pressure was renewed against the high priced motor and specialty shares.

The rest of market, unsettled by fears of an early increase in the New York Federal Reserve rate, offered feeble resistance to the attack.

U. S. Steel and other pivotal industrials, which displayed a strong tone earlier in the day, joined in the downward drift of prices.

The more volatile issues, such as duPont, Chrysler and American Brake Shoe & Foundry, broke 6 to 9 points.

WOMEN WAR ON NIGHT CLUBS SELLING RUM

The support of Lieutenant Governor Frank G. Allen in a move to rid the State of every night club and roadhouse in which liquor is sold or drunk was solidified today by a delegation of women engaged in civic, social and church work.

Mrs. William Tilton, chairman of the Women's Committee of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, who headed the delegation, had originally intended to make her plea to Governor Fuller, but the Governor was unable to be present owing to

HARVARD ELEVEN NOW WINNER, SAYS FISHER

By NICK FLATLEY

Coach Bob Fisher of Harvard is firm in his decision to quit active participation in football. He announced that he was through Saturday night, and he reiterates today.

"I feel very sure," said Fisher today, "that I will not do any more coaching. I have been at it now for six or seven years. It isn't fun.

"You're a wonder when you win, and a nonentity when you lose. I think it's time I settled down to business."

Coach Robert was feeling very happy about the great stand his team made Saturday, and also about Harvard's gridiron prospects.

"I think the tide has turned at Harvard," he declared positively. "Football is on the upgrade once more. The last two games showed that. The desire to win, and the feel of victory is back.

"The squad that returns next

WOMEN IN MITCHELL'S FIGHT FOR SAFE FLYING AND AMERICAN SUPREMACY OF THE AIR

Crusader for American supremacy of the air. Colonel William Mitchell, who took the witness stand at his court martial today.

Another of the air disasters that led Mitchell to criticize the air service of the nation so severely that his court martial was ordered, culminating with the appearance of the flying colonel on the witness stand today. Much of his criticism affected dirigible airships.

Mitchell defenders. On left, his wife, a daily attendant at the court martial. On right, Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne, widow of Shenandoah commander.

Why Mitchell protests. Crashes such as these are largely due to obsolete planes and administrative incompetency, the flying colonel charges.

COUNSEL CHARGES ALICE WITH PLOT TO FORCE SETTLEMENT

admittedly were more erotic than the love letters written by Mrs. Rhinelander. When the reading of the letters began, Alice and her mother left the courtroom and remained outside during the subsequent cross-examination on their contents.

The letters were each about 800 words long and were concerned with events that occurred when Alice and Leonard spent a week at the Hotel Marie Antoinette in New York in 1921. Picking up the second letter, which was by far more erotic than the first, Mr. Davis asked:

"Did you love this girl when you wrote that?" "Yes," answered Rhinelander.

Although he had kept his eyes fixed on the floor during the reading of more lurid passages, he turned squarely on Mr. Davis and answered in a firm voice. His characteristic stutter recurred at intervals when the questions were more than usually intimate.

PUT "HEART INTO LETTERS."

Finally young Rhinelander said that he could see nothing wrong in his actions at the Marie Antoinette, indicating that he did not agree with the shocked attitude that Mr. Davis took on the revelations.

Although at first he denied that these letters were written to lead Alice on, he admitted that in one of the letters written June 6 he was trying to tempt her. "I had no other outlet to express my emotions except in my letters," he said. "In them I put my heart and soul."

"Did you have any letters using this kind of stuff from Alice?" asked Mr. Davis. "No," admitted the witness.

"Did you intend to make this girl your wife when you wrote these letters to her?" "I had visions of it."

Throughout the cross-examination Mills was on his feet constantly, making objections to the repetitions of certain questions.

When court first opened today, Attorney Milton for Rhinelander, charged the mystery letters had been introduced to "force" his client to quit the suit. Attorney Davis thereupon demanded that a mistrial be called, because of Attorney Mills' statement, but the court refused to grant the motion.

In the midst of his cross-examination on the mystery letters, Mr. Davis asked that the court be cleared, in order that he might show Alice's skin to the jury.

ALICE BREAKS INTO TEARS.

Justice Morschauser interposed an objection and it was agreed to retire to the jury room. Alice returned to the courtroom and broke into tears as she walked into the room.

Those who went with her into the private room were Leonard, Davis, Mills, Mrs. Jones, Justice Morschauser, the court stenographer and the jury. Alice was wrapped in a heavy coat and was comforted by her mother.

The party returned from the jury room about ten minutes later, Alice remaining inside. Rhinelander resumed the stand and said that her skin appeared the same color as when he had first seen it.

"That's all," said Davis suddenly and Rhinelander's ordeal was finished. He left the stand and adjournment was taken until this afternoon, when other witnesses for the plaintiff will testify.

DREW THE "COLOR LINE."

Just before going into the jury room, Mr. Davis asked Leonard if Alice had ever admitted to him that she had been in love with another man before she met her husband. Rhinelander said that she had given this information to him voluntarily.

"Did this girl, who is pictured as chasing you, confess this?" asked Davis. "Yes."

"And yet this girl, who volunteered this thing, deceived you in the Summer of 1924 as to her color?" "Yes, I drew the line."

Mr. Mills appeared early in court and when Justice Morschauser ascended the bench—made the statement, in which he said the introduction of the letters was a "plot."

The letters had so shocked him, he admitted, that he had lost all idea of the proper method of procedure last week.

While Mr. Mills was making his remarks, Mr. Davis rose and said: "This is a deliberate attempt to bring about a mistrial."

After a lively argument, finally settled by Justice Morschauser, Mr. Mills said, "we proceed with the trial."

Letters Brought Tears to Blue Eyes of Young Kip

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23.—The following is the first of the so-called mystery letters read in the Rhinelander case:

Cliff Hotel, San Francisco, Cal., Tuesday night, July 11, 1922.

Last letter until I get to Honolulu.

My Own Dearest Girl:

All day long I have been dreading this very moment and thinking how can I ever write Alice tonight, because dear do you realize this will be the last letter you will get from me for probably two weeks.

That's the reason, darling, I hate to sit down at this desk tonight, because it will be long, long time before I can mail you another one and, dear, it will be a longer time still, I am sorry to say, before that letter reaches you. Lord only knows when you will receive another one of My notes, but remember this, dear girl, I am going to write you a few lines, every day while on the steamer and will post it just as soon as we land at Honolulu, so Alice in the meantime wait patiently and pray for your old boy while he is on the deep blue sea.

"BLESSED SWEETHEART."

"I don't know how often the boats run from Honolulu to San Francisco, but, old scout, you can bet your bottom dollar that whenever one leaves, it will be carrying a letter to you from your faithful Len.

Last night, sweetheart after writing three full pages to you, I undressed and scrambled into my bed, but not to go to sleep. No, baby, do you know what I did? Something that you do when my letters arrive at night. Yes, loved one, I took everyone of your notes which I received at general delivery and read them while layying on the bed. Oh! blessed sweetheart of mine, some of the things you told me brought tears to my blue eyes, others made my heart seem as though it would burst with joy, and when you mentioned the time we were together at the "Marie Antoinette x x x (deleted).

God! Alice can you imagine me reading your tempting notes in bed last night, and the way I must have felt x x x (deleted).

"BE GOOD, DEAR CHILD."

Oh! Alice, love, be good, dear child, because I want you in the days to come and remember to keep our SECRET locked safely in your heart. You asked me if I met any other girl, didn't you dear? sweetheart. What a foolish question to put before me, because you KNOW perfectly well that I haven't bothered with anybody since I left you and NEVER will old scout, for you are my only one NOW and ALWAYS. Listen, dear, we expect to stay in Honolulu about a month and leave there on August 16th, arriving in San Francisco on August 23rd, so dear, will you do something for me?

When the first of August comes, please begin writing to me at General Delivery San Francisco and keep it up every day but not after Aug. 15th. You will write most you dear, because I will be just dying to get your letters when we land at San Francisco on August 23rd after spending a whole month in Honolulu.

This morning, darling, I sent you a book of verses, entitled, "Someone like you" which I hope arrived safely and that you liked the little poems. Read it over dear, when I am on the ocean and far, far away on the Hawaiian Islands.

This afternoon, dear, I sent you a telegram saying that we were sailing and when we would return to San Francisco. Did you receive that also and were you glad to hear that all your notes have reached me safely?

"I am going to ask you to do something else for me, honey bunch. This may seem foolish NOW, but it won't later on, I am sure. Will you please stay in Paul Smith on TUESDAY, July 18, I mean by that not go away to Montreal or another place. Just stay around there on the day, because I have a reason and you know that when I ask you to do something I must have some IMPORTANT reason.

Well, love, let me wish you very many happy returns of the day and even though I can't be with you dear Alice, I will NEVER forget you on that day or any other.

I understand you said you were going to Saranac Lake on the 19th of July if you had not told me that I would have asked you to stay in Paul Smith on that day. However, I ask you to remain there on Tuesday, July 18th. Please do that for your old Leonard. You will, won't you, dear? Now, darling, to sum up.

"Write me at General Delivery, San Francisco, Cal., every day, beginning on August 1, but not after August 12, and be sure to write on the envelope, 'hold until called for.' Stay around Paul Smith on Tuesday, July 18, just because I ask you to, dear heart, that's all. Good night, love, and have patience, for I will write as soon as I reach Honolulu. Do these two things for your boy and pray for my safe voyage over and back.

"Your ever true, loving
"Len."

(I love you Alice.)

LETTER OF BURNING LOVE.

The second letter follows:

Cliff Hotel, San Francisco, Tuesday, June 6th, 1922.

"My Own Darling Girl:

"This morning after I had gotten back from my walk through Golden Gate Park I found two more of your cheery letters, dated June 1st, waiting for me under my door. Do you know dear, that I have received five of your sweet notes in the last two days.

"It is hard to believe and almost seems too good to be true, but I have them all before me on the desk and looking them over while I am writing to you.

It makes me feel so happy, darling, when I hear from you and especially when you write about how you used to caress me and make me feel as though I were in Heaven. .... (Deleted)

"Well, Alice, darling, may be when you have read these things you will feel blue or may be they will make you fee) happy: I don't know which.

"But, love one, you asked me to write an interesting letter, like you sent me, so I have tried my best. Have I tempted you, sweetheart, and have I made you imagine I was right next to you?

"Listen, Alice, when you got this letter don't write to me at the Hotel Cliff any more, because my pal and I will be starting in a day or two to the Yosemite Valley. I hate to ask you not to write here any more, because Lord only knows when I am going to get another of your letters.

"However, dear, I got along for three weeks without hearing from you, and I will get along this time because I have faith in you, dear, and will always trust you.

"Your loving boy,
"LEN."

Broadway Quite Kippy With Its Kips

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—Broadway is barely standing the shocks of the Rhinelander case. Just barely. Wits of Gotham may almost be said to be "letting their Kips fall when they may."

Harry Hershfield, who draws comic pictures, and Karl K. Kitchen, who writes about the white lights and environs, strolled into a Volsteadian bar—so runs the tale.

Says Harry, largely, "What will you have?"

"A Rhinelander soda, for mine," says Karl.

"I'll bite," replies Hershfield, "what is a Rhinelander soda?"

"Why, don't you know?" Kitchen retorted. "That's chocolate with vanilla ice cream."

Then there was Irving Berlin. He is in the letters. So was Al Jolson. But Al Jolson also got so well into the letters that he had to go onto the witness stand. Jolson wrote Berlin a letter, joshing him about the case, whereupon the songster sent the black-face comedian a telegram which read:

"Now I know where you get your dialect."

MITCHELL HIT AIR SERVICE TO ROUSE NATION

get its bearing from the Atlantic Coast line."

Under questioning by his counsel, Representative Reid of Illinois, Mitchell testified that a hundred recommendations for developing aviation had been ignored by high army and navy heads. Then when his pictured breakdown in aviation began to gather a frightful toll of human lives, as exemplified in the Shenandoah crash, he made his appeal to the general public.

On cross-examination Mitchell frankly admitted some of his San Antonio statements, for which he was court-martialled, were not based on facts. They constituted merely his opinion, he said, and his beliefs on what should be done to safeguard America's national defence.

Mitchell boldly painted Japan as America's menace in the Pacific, and said he meant Japan when he said an enemy power could sweep America from the Pacific under our present national defence, which gives aviation only a minor part.

ARMIES TO BE OBSOLETE.

In future wars he predicted submarines and aircraft will be the greatest weapons, and the huge armies of the world war and past may never come into action.

In a recommendation for improved weather reports for the air service, Mitchell said that "The poor weather data furnished in the past has cost the lives of many brave pilots and the destruction of valuable property." He said his recommendations were not approved.

TORE SHIP TO PIECES.

During the bombing tests off the Virginia Capes, the planes were forced to fly 100 miles out to sea, Mitchell said, to reach the targets. When allowed to attack the Alabama, he said, "our bombs tore her to pieces in four minutes."

Telling next of bombing off Cape Hatteras in 1920, Mitchell said: "We were instructed by the Chief of Staff to bomb at 10,000 feet. At that time we knew of no bombardment plane in the whole world capable of getting that altitude and certainly we had no such bomber in this country. "We took this order as a direct attempt to nullify our efforts."

HUNTING BODY OF GIRL IN RIVER

It's Easy to Own Your Own Home if You'll Watch the Real Estate Bargains in the Classified Ads

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A HOME PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1925

A paper that goes into the home. Dependable, fearless, entertaining and educational.

BOY FRIEND GIVES NEW TIP ON MISSING GIRL

Alice M. Corbett, Smith College student, missing 11 days and now believed dead by her own act.

More than ten miles of the shores of the Connecticut River were scanned by the police in their hunt for the body of Alice Corbett. In a canoe, men explored every cove and pocket from Northampton to Holyoke.

A dog has been called into the hunt, in the hope that the keener senses of animal instinct will reveal what man cannot find. The dog is Arivon, owned by Mrs. H. B. Young of Northampton.

In the searching party are: Officer Campbell of Northampton, Arthur Pepin of Easthampton, Officer J. Hughes Easthampton; Game Warden P. J. Hurley, Eugene Brothers, John Flynn, Arthur Britt and Ed Wright.

John McCool, superintendent of Mt. Tom reservation, in the woods of which searchers worked.

HUNT FOR BODY OF STUDENT IN RIVER

Northampton, Nov. 23—In a grilling of an hour that created evident excitement among the officials, Thomas Sterling, Amherst senior, is understood to have given the searchers for Alice M. Corbett important information, and the hunt was renewed with vigor.

For eleven days now, Alice, 19-year-old Smith College junior, has been missing under mysterious circumstances, while two police dogs have attempted in vain to track her.

A late clew that brought no result was given by John Galvin, watchman on the Lyman estate, who told the police a girl answering Alice's description stepped on the porch of one of the Lyman houses.

"Ari Von," a police dog owned by Mrs. H. B. Young of this place, was taken to the porch, but could pick up no scent.

The grilling of young Sterling was conducted by District Attorney John C. Hammond of Hampshire County, and State Detective Joseph Daly and created a furor here.

Immediately after Sterling had been questioned by the two officials a search was conducted in a motor operated canoe along the banks of the Connecticut River, from the Hadley Bridge in Northampton to the South Hadley Falls Bridge in Holyoke, for the body of the missing girl.

The authorities refused point blank to tell the members of the press just why Sterling was brought over from Amherst College and grilled.

Sterling refused to make any statement to reporters. Detective Daly accompanied by two other men left the Hadley Bridge shortly before two o'clock and covered the Connecticut River banks as far as Holyoke for a distance of ten miles. Every nook along the banks of the river were carefully searched.

NIGHT R. R. GATE TENDER IN WALTHAM ABOLISHED

Under a decree issued today by the Public Utilities Commission, the Boston & Maine Railroad is relieved of maintaining a gate tender at the crossing at Lyman street in Waltham between the hours of 8.10 p. m. and 7.10 a. m. on week days, and between 6.30 p. m. and 9.30 a. m. on Sundays. During the time the crossing is unprotected, however, all trains will be required to come to a full stop within a distance of fifty feet of the crossing and to have a member of the crew direct the train by proper signals.

SEA-GOING FARMERS SAIL SHIP TO BOSTON

The Waimana, carrying sheep pelts and hemp, not to mention a novel crew—as crews go—tied up today after a 33-day trip from New Zealand. On account of the strike in New Zealand, Captain Andrews picked up a crew of shop clerks, ranchers and farmers, who had never been to sea, before and is so satisfied with his novice crew that strikes cease to worry him any more. "They make enthusiastic sailors," he said, "when they find the right ropes and are all delighted at seeing the world and getting paid for it."

Coolidge Can Fix It So Chapman Will Hang

Washington, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Officials here have under advisement a suggestion that President Coolidge pardon Gerald Chapman from serving his Federal sentence for mail robbery, so that the death penalty imposed upon him in Connecticut for murder can be carried out.

JUDGE CARROLL KNIGHTED BY POPE PIUS

Springfield, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Signal honors have been conferred upon prominent laymen and priests of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield by Pope Pius, according to word received today from Bishop Thomas M. O'Leary, who is now in Rome, by the Very Rev. Bernard S. Conaty, V. G., of Pittsfield, and by him transmitted to the chancelry office at St. Michael's Cathedral here.

The Holy See has conferred the title of knight commander of St. Gregory the Great upon James B. Carroll, of this city, Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, and also upon Dr. Michael P. Fallon of St. Vincent Hospital at Worcester.

Pope Pius has created Very Rev. R. S. Conaty a prothonotary apostolic ad instar participantium.

The honor of monsignori has been conferred upon the following priests of the diocese, with the title of domestic prelate:

Rev. John T. Sheehan, pastor of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, Ware; Rev. John F. Cunlih, pastor of Holy Name Church, Chicopee; Rev. M. A. Desrocher, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Webster; Rev. John F. Fagan, P. R., of St. Jerome Church, Holyoke; Rev. John E. Phelan, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Whitinsville.

COLD WAVE IN HUB TONIGHT

A cold area that gripped Chicago and the lake region today is moving eastward at a rapid rate and is expected to cause a decided drop in temperature in New England late tonight. It will pass quickly, however, weather experts predict, and the mild temperatures enjoyed for the last two weeks are expected to resume by tomorrow night or Wednesday morning.

Rain fell throughout the New England States today, with snow reported at Northfield, Vt., accompanied by warm temperature. The official government forecast is fair and colder tonight; Tuesday increasing cloudiness, with slowly rising temperature.

At 10 o'clock today the mercury at the local weather bureau stood at 44 degrees, the lowest recorded for the last twenty-four hours.

HULTMAN FINDS NO SHORTAGE OF POTATOES

Overdemand, due to a panicky fear of a shortage, is the cause of the high price of potatoes.

Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Massachusetts Commission on Necessaries of Life, so declared today in a preliminary report and finding on the potato situation in this State.

The sudden change of attitude of housewives and their action several days ago in buying only for immediate needs brought prices down 10 per cent and will haul them down still further in the near future, says Mr. Hultman.

He insists, in his report, that there is no actual shortage of potatoes and none in sight in the future, and points out that at present the market is rapidly assuming a condition of oversupply, limited only by the inability of the railroads to handle the shipments that Maine and Canadian growers are trying to rush to Massachusetts.

UP TO HOUSEWIVES.

"If housewives will continue to purchase potatoes for actual, immediate needs only, the prices will quickly correct themselves and assume a normal level," said Chairman Hultman.

"The retail price is now 150 per cent, above last year and 100 per cent. above pre-war level, in spite of the fact that receipts of potatoes in Boston in November were twenty times greater than last year."

He declared that, although the Maine crop on November 1 was reported as about 7,500,000 bushels less than last year, 20 per cent., or about 7,500,000 bushels of last year's crop, went into starch, farmers being unable to find buyers for this amount in the provision markets.

WARNS OF CANARDS.

He warned the public of the danger from false rumors of shortages spread by speculators, causing a stampede among buyers and thus creating an artificial, temporary shortage which brought great profits to the speculators.

The report contains a comparison of retail potato prices in Massachusetts for each month of this year and last year, as follows:

	1924	1925
January	41	32
February	42	32
March	42	28
April	44	26
May	44	30
June	54	32
July	44	38
August	36	48
September	32	43
October	28	66
November	27	70-90

CHARGE AUTOIST FLED AFTER BOY WAS KILLED

Peter Riccobene, twenty-six, of No. 58 Liverpool street, East Boston, was arraigned in East Boston court today on charge of going away after an accident without making himself known in connection with the killing of eight-year-old Liborio Turco of No. 229 Chelsea street, East Boston, by an auto. Police say Riccobene fled despite Ralph DeStefano's plea to take the boy to a hospital, and that Riccobene appeared at the station fifteen minutes after the accident and reported his auto stolen. The machine was found abandoned on Saratoga street today.

STATLER'S SON GETS $20 WEEK CLEANING FISH

New York, Nov. 23.—Milton Statler, 19 years old, is cleaning chickens and fish for $20 a week in one of the many hotels he will own some day.

32 Texans Say 'Ma' Ferguson Must Go

Austin, Tex., Nov. 23 (I.N.S.).—Thirty-two signatories to the petition of Representative T. K. Irwin, calling for a special session of the Texas Legislature to impeach "Ma" Ferguson, had been affixed at noon today.

TELLS OF MONEY OFFERED TO MACRI GIRL

By BERT FORD.

Litchfield, Ct., Nov. 23.—Miss Marion Lombardi Bagnano, cousin of Olympia Macri, testifying for the State at Olympia's trial for the murder of John Bagnano, admitted under cross-examination today that Bagnano offered the accused girl money, but she denied he had admitted to her that he was the father of Miss Macri's baby.

Mrs. Carrie Bagnano, widow of the slain man, who also has a baby, expected to be called as soon as Marion Bagnano finished her testimony. Marion, a blood relation of the accused girl, married Tony Bagnano, brother of the murdered singer and dancer.

Samuel Parillo, an amusement agent, testified that he heard Olympia Macri and Bagnano's wife talking about Johnny. Olympia demanded that Bagnano give her money for her child. She told Mrs. Bagnano she heard Johnny made $15 a night. Mrs. Bagnano said she would be happy if Johnny made $15 a week.

THINK THUNDER SHOOK EARTH

Tremors and rumblings, believed to have been from an earthquake, were felt in Fall River today, but the Harvard seismograph failed to record any indication of a quake.

Experts at Harvard declared, however, that a slight local disturbance might not register on the seismograph. Nevertheless they were inclined to a theory that the rumbles were caused by thunder.

Many report hearing the rumblings and the lighting system of the city was affected at the same time. During the disturbance practically every switchboard light in the telephone exchange flashed on simultaneously.

Like disturbances were reported from Newport and Warren, R. I. The shaking came at the height of a severe freak thunder storm which burst over this section of New England.

COL. REDMOND IN RACE FOR MAYOR OF SALEM

Salem, Nov. 23.—Col. Ernest H. Redmond, commander of the 102d Field Artillery, M. N. G., sprung an eleventh hour surprise here today when he filed nomination papers for Mayor to oppose Mayor George J. Bates. Redmond is a World War veteran, serving as a lieutenant-colonel and is a broker with offices in Boston.

FREES BENNETT OF SLAYING CHARGES

Because the evidence was not sufficient to uphold the full complaint, the charge against James H. Bennett, one of the five alleged Waltham carbarn thugs, of being an accessory before and after the fact of murder, was dropped in Middlesex Superior Court today.

In its stead was substituted a charge of being an accessory in the robbery, and on this Bennett was reindicted.

Officer Sherlock told of visiting Bennett in his cell with Officer Edward O'Neil, Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell and a stenographer.

Sherlock said Bennett told him that John J. Devereaux, one of the defendants, came to his home after midnight on the morning of October 8, a few hours following the murder of James H. Perkeau, carbarn watchman, and asked to be put up. He remained that night.

Sherlock said Bennett told him Devereaux had been drinking and asked for a drink next morning.

Bennett told him, Officer Sherlock testified, that he knew nothing of the guns and coins found in his place and that he knew nothing of the holdup except what he read in the newspapers, but that he suspected Devereaux and several others.

A slicker shown him by the officer was identified by Bennett as owned by Peter McLaughlin, a fugitive from justice, wanted in connection with the holdup and murder, Sherlock said.

BUSHNELL THROWN, KICKED IN FACE

Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, of Middlesex County, is incapacitated for two or three days because, while out for his Sunday afternoon canter, his horse threw him on the Jamaica-way, and then kicked him in the face. Mr. Bushnell's injuries, however, are not of a serious nature.

NOEL GOES TO CHAIR JAN. 10 FOR DOUBLE CRIME

Newark, N. J., Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Harrison W. Noel, kidnaper and slayer of six-year-old Mary Daly of Montclair, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of January 10, for the murder of Raymond Pierce, negro taxicab driver, whose car he used in abducting the child.

TRIES TO KILL GIRL TO STOP WEDDING

in the Martin home and all was happy. But at the plant of late, a coolness had sprung up between the two men—the one who had Mary and the one that was to have her.

Mary works at the Malden Rubber Company plant, but she did not report for duty today. Instead, she intended remaining out and putting the last finishing touches on the "love nest," into which she and Peter would move in a true spirit of Thanksgiving next Thursday.

The dreams of Mary were still rose-hued as she slept today, but then they suddenly glared in a horrible flaming red and she awoke in horror to find her father slashing, slashing, slashing, with horrible sweeps of his powerful left arm that left her throat stinging terribly and her nightgown crimson with blood.

Her hands went up and the keen razor slashed her wrists before she could roll in agony out of bed and race downstairs to the flat of Mrs. Nellie Higgins.

Nellie, Nellie, let me in," she shrieked, and when the door had been opened she raced as far as the parlor and crumbled to the carpet unconscious.

Upstairs in his own bedroom the police found the father, with his own throat slashed and scarcely breathing.

Both were rushed to the hospital where their names were placed on the dinger list and where physicians said they feared even the quick first aid measures resorted to by Patrolman Sudley and Kearney of the Somerville police would prove of no avail.

Fear that Jardina would abandon his bride after their honeymoon is the explanation Mary's step-mother made of Martin's frenzied act.

"Peter is rich and we are poor," she said. "My husband disapproved of Mary marrying a man so far above her. He was afraid Peter would soon tire of her and then disgrace her by returning to his parents' home."

Mrs. Martin believes her husband had carefully planned the slaying. She said he ordered her from the house and called her up and got a job at the Malden Rubber Co. She was out of the house but a short time when he attacked his daughter and slashed himself.

"Mary was ambitious and went to night school because she wanted to pick up English," she continued. "Peter was devoted to her, and she would have been very happy with him. My husband welcomed Peter yesterday when he came to visit Mary, but he must have gone insane today.

The stepmother is nearly prostrated over the tragedy. Jardine, who lives at No. 3 Bedford street, Somerville, visited his sweetheart at Somerville Hospital and remained at her bedside for a half hour. But Mary was unconscious.

25 CASES OF TYPHOID TRACED TO BANQUET

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 23. (A.P.)—Twenty-five cases of typhoid fever that have developed in the vicinity of Delevan, Emden and Lincoln have been traced to a community banquet held at Emden, October 16. All but two of the victims are women.

ALL THIS WAS DONE IN LESS THAN A SECOND

This is the one-man car that was rammed by a two-man car at Roxbury Crossing. For all the wreckage and jolting, only four persons were hurt, and none seriously.

Mrs. Margaret Gilleo, of Jamaica Plain, the most seriously hurt of the crash victims.

WOMEN WAR ON NIGHT CLUB

a slight cold.

In discussing her plea to the acting Governor, Mrs. Tilton said:

"We do not desire to close up proper clubs or country inns. The improper clubs and road houses we do desire to close. We urged that there be included in the Governor's annual message to the General Court a recommendation for the enactment of legislation to clear our State and to free our youth of the incorporated clubs and road houses of bad intent."

Mrs. Tilton declared that the group will work this Winter for:

Jail sentences for second offenders guilty of rum-running, hootchy-kooing and moon-shining.

Heavier fines for other violations of the liquor laws.

Stricter laws covering road houses and clubs.

Police supervision of inns and clubs.

Referring again to the night clubs Mrs. Tilton said:

"They may be simply saloons under cover, dope dens under cover or vice resorts under cover. Into these incorporated clubs no police officer or Federal officer may enter. Thus vice may be rampant. The doors of supervision must be opened."

In many towns, the speaker declared, the local authorities do not demand a proper license for road houses to operate.

GIRL SAW CAR CRASH COMING

Margaret Gilleo, 18, of No. 102 Jamaica street, was held today in the City Hospital for observation and four other persons are confined to their home as a result of the trolley crash at Columbus avenue and Roxbury street, last night.

Miss Gilleo, who was in the car going to Jamaica Plain, saw the crash coming, but was too horrified to make an outcry.

"I knew we were going to bump," she said, "but I don't remember what happened, for I woke up here in the hospital!"

The crash, according to passengers, happened when an inbound one-man car operated by Patrick Tilvin was struck by a two-man car in charge of Conductor John B. McEvoy and operated by Motorman John B. Mcfarthy. A shower of glass flew over the passengers, causing slight cuts that were treated in a nearby drug store.

The others sent to the hospital and later returned to their homes were:

Charles Cutting, 13, of No. 145 Terrace street, Roxbury, cut and bruised.

Miss Ellen Crowley of Centre street, Jamaica Plain.

Charles Giacoppi, 22, of No. 9 Albert street.

Roger McAtamley of No. 585 Tremont street.

SHIP ASHORE ON CUBAN COAST

New York, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—The New York freight steamship Susherico was aground today at Punta de Maternillos, Cuba. S O S calls picked up here indicated that the steamship was in communication with the naval radio station at Port-au-Prince, Haiti.

The Susherico, 1,897 tons, after a recent trip from New York, left Havana for other Cuban ports. Faint wireless calls were picked up during the night by various stations, but the sender could not then be identified.

One wireless message picked up by the independent wireless telegraph station said boats were being sent from Port-au-Prince and Miami, Fla., to the aid of the Susherico. The steamer was reported to be in a dangerous position.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN STOCKBRIDGE SHORTAGE

Pittsfield, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Michael Flynn, 2nd, who for twenty-four years was tax collector at Stockbridge and resigned after a shortage was found in his accounts, waived hearing in District Court at Lenox today after pleading not guilty to a charge of larceny of $22,000 of town funds. He was bound over to the Grand Jury sitting in January. Flynn has been out on $20,000 bail since his arrest Saturday.

GIRL AND THREE POLICEMEN BURNED

Tongue of Flame Shoots Out From South End Doughnut Plant Fire

Three policemen and one girl, Esther Rubin of Dover street, South End, were burned today in a flash of flame that swept them as the officers extinguished a fire in the doughnut factory of Sachs & Co., No. 780 Tremont street, South End. The girl was passing as the officers beat down the door of the building and her fur coat and hair were singed.

Without warning, the long, broad tongue of fire licked out at them, accompanied by a staccato explosion. The flame died out as quickly as it came, giving way to dense black grease-smoke that blinded the officers.

The three policemen, Sergeant John J. Gale, Patrolman Coleman J. Joyce and Patrolman William J. Hartigan, managed to beat out the flames that nearly burned the uniforms from their bodies, and sticking close together in the pall of smoke, they made their way out, summoned help and stayed at the scene until firemen arrived.

At City Hospital physicians found all three suffering from second degree burns and marveled that the men were able to stay on their feet with such painful injuries.

The fire was caused by a short circuit in the mixing machine.

Fire Victim

Miss Esther Rubin of Dover street, South End, whose fur coat and hair were singed as tongue of flame shot out from fire in South End doughnut plant where three firemen were badly burned.

UPHOLDS SEIZURE OF RUM BOAT 16 MILES OFF COAST

Washington, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—The Supreme Court today refused to disturb three appeals brought by the government for forfeiture of the Canadian schooner Frances Louise, and her cargoed liquor seized 16½ miles off the Massachusetts coast. The cases will be heard on their merits. The Federal District Court for Massachusetts held that the seizure was unlawful because the schooner was more than an hour off shore. The government insisted the seizures could be justified on the ground that the schooner was trading with the shore and that in the liquor smuggling treaty with Great Britain the United States had not abandoned its rights to seize under municipal and international laws.

CHAIN STORES ON 'CHANGE

Securities of the First National Stores, Inc., the combination of the Connor, Ginter and O'Keeffe chain grocery stores, will be listed on the New York Stock Exchange, it was learned today. This is believed to forecast a broader ownership of the securities which heretofore have been owned by small groups.

Plans for the future also call for the extension of activities beyond the fifty-mile-from-Boston territory, in which the business of the three chain store systems has been concentrated, and the first new development, it is understood, will be in Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Ginter restaurants will be operated as an integral part of the First National Stores, Inc., but the new organization will eliminate many of the local neighborhood stores which at present are believed to be overabundant in many communities.

MEDFORD BOY AUTO THIEF GETS 2 YEARS

Time to Act When the Home, School and Church Fail, Says Judge Bruce

Declaring that home, church and school had failed when an educated youth turned to auto thievery, Judge Charles M. Bruce in Malden District Court today sent Paul C. Bush, nineteen, of Reading to the House of Correction for two years, in spite of the boy's plea for leniency.

Bush, a graduate of Medford High School and son of well-to-do parents, who recently moved from Medford to Reading, pleaded guilty to larceny of an automobile owned by Horthotomew Molloy of Medford on October 5.

"All automobile thieves will get two-year sentences from me hereafter," said Judge Bruce.

"I intend to rid my district of these offenders, if I can, and when home, school and church all fail to guide youths on the right paths, then stronger methods are necessary."

WIFE OF JUDGE MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN IS DEAD

Mrs. Grace Mahoney Sullivan, wife of Michael H. Sullivan, associate Justice of the Dorchester District Court and former chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, died suddenly today at her home, No. 32 Charlotte street, Dorchester.

She is survived by her husband and five children. Mrs. Sullivan was born in North Adams forty-one years ago. She was a graduate of Westfield Normal School.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at St. Leo's Church, Dorchester, and burial will be at Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

Clothes Don't Make You, Fay King Asserts

$ 35.00 — I WOULDN'T HAVE IT FOR $ 35.00
BUT EET EESS SO SHARP-ER-ST MADAME!
DOTTIE HAS A PERFECT FACE FOR ANY FIVE DOLLAR HAT!
BETTY CAN WEAR HER HEE-HEE-BRONX SEAT BETTER THAN MRS X CAN WEAR HER RUSSIAN SABLES!
STICK TO YOUR MIRROR DON'T LET THE SALESLADY'S FRENCH ACCENT INFLUENCE YOU!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Clothes don't make the man, but women makes the clothes!

The difference between a spotless cruline evening wrap and one made of white rabbit is the woman who wears it, and the dame who can look dressy in anything can outshine the price tag on any frock.

The average man knows little or less about the materials and cost of women's wear, and a pretty face in a becoming $5 hat can make a more favorable hit than a $50 bonnet that is unbecoming!

Many a dame with a little dough lets herself be escorted into a perfectly caricature of a costume just because she believes an exclusive shop that charges stiff prices and spouts a lotta tall talk can't sell her the wrong thing.

She slides clear of the cheaper shops where they call her dearie instead of madam, she's a lot safer where a girl may get familiar and say:

"That ain't the hat for you, honey, this one's better!"

You see girls on the street every day who can wear an imitation string of beads better than some other dame can wear real pearls.

The knack of wearing clothes is a gift!

Money can't make it, and material can't bring it!

The trouble with some women who can afford anything is that they wear everything!

Sometimes the art of looking well depends on what you leave off more than on what you put on!

The girl with pretty hands can make an imitation emerald look more beautiful than a dame who clutters up her fat fingers with five-carat diamonds!

Know your style and stick to it with mulish seasoning, is the secret of looking well, whether you shop with limited or unlimited bankroll!

WILLIAM D. HAWLEY DIES, AGED 87 YEARS

Death came today to William D. Hawley of No. 37 Washington street, Malden, who fought with an Illinois regiment in the Civil War and subsequently served Massachusetts for fifty-four years. He was in his eighty-ninth year. As Deputy State Auditor and clerk of the Ways and Means Committee, Mr. Hawley was a familiar figure on Beacon Hill. He was warden of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and president of the Malden Cooperative Bank. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice C. Hawley, with whom he celebrated his Golden Wedding anniversary in 1916, and also by two sons and a daughter.

A Raw, Sore Throat
Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole

Musterole won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

COOLIDGE REFUSES TO REVIEW BAN ON KAROLYI

Washington, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—The appeal of counsel for Countess Karolyi asking a review by the President of the State Department's action in barring her from entry into the United States was referred today by the White House to Secretary Kellogg.

The Waiter's Secret!

"I've received five-dollar tips for this little tip to patrons. It's a secret I carry right in my pocket, and it lets folks eat anything. I've told dyspeptics to order rich foods and top 'em off with pastry. Then I give 'em a little tablet and send 'em away smiling!"

Ailments like dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach—are not caused by what you eat. Give your digestive system a little scientific help. And eat what you like! Yes, even doughnuts; baked beans; dishes cooked with onions. Stuart's dyspepsia tablets give your stomach the alkaline it needs—and that's all there is to it! Eat your fill, and don't fear acidity, gas, or distress in any form!

Men and women of every age, in all walks of life, have sworn by Stuart's—for more than thirty years. Pleasant, harmless, and they do the work.

Your First Box FREE!

Any druggist in the land has Stuart's dyspepsia tablets. A big box only 60c—they are less than a penny apiece! So, why suffer? Get a 25c metal box of Stuart's for the pocket—and keep it filled. One box free if you write the F. A. Stuart Company, Dept. H, Marshall, Mich.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for coughs, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

Colds

Broken in one day

Colds demand quinine in a form which does not affect the head. That means Cascara-Bromide Quinine.

They demand a laxative. Cascara is the best we know.

They demand tonics, and Hill's contains two of them. Also other factors of vast importance in a cold.

Hill's stops a cold in 24 hours. It stops fever and headache. It breaks grippe in three days.

Then be sure you get the genuine, proved for 25 years. You cannot afford to take chances with a cold. All druggists sell Hill's.

FOR BURNING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases quickly give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid that may be applied at any time, for it does not show.

Romance by Air

Mrs. R. Curtis Moffat, bride of the first commander of the Boston Airport.

Lieut. R. Curtis Moffat, United States Air Service, first commander of the Boston Airport, and Mrs. Moffat, who were married at the rectory of St. Dominic's Church, at Portland, Maine, on Saturday, will spend their honeymoon in Florida.

They started South by motor soon after the reception at the LaFayette Hotel, at which the wedding party and the relatives of the bride and bridegroom were the guests of the bride's father.

The bride was Miss Germaine Michaud, daughter of Mr. Alexandre Michaud, of Montreal, Canada, and Old Orchard, Maine.

It was on one of his many flights over New England that he met his bride, who was spending the Summer with her father at Old Orchard.

Lieutenant Moffat's present station is McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, and he and Mrs. Moffat will be at home there after February 1st.

BEWARE CROOKS OF XMAS TIME

The annual warning against the knaves of Christmas was sounded by Superintendent Michael H. Crowley today, with a list of "Xmas Don'ts" particularly advising shoppers along the lines of safety.

An extra police detail has been assigned to the shopping district, but the shoppers must do a bit of the watching themselves.

Following is the list of "don'ts":

Don't push into crowds. This is the opportunity the sneak thief is looking for.

Don't hesitate to use your lungs and your larnyx if you feel a tug at your arm or a hand in your pocket.

Don't carry large sums of money.

Don't, men, carry money in hip pockets; and don't, women, carry handbags by the handles.

Don't exhibit money in public places.

Don't leave bags or bundles or your purse down on store counters —not even for a second.

Don't fail to shout if you see a pickpocket at work on someone else. You might be in the other fellow's position in five minutes.

Don't carry too many bundles in your arms.

Don't fail to remember that pickpockets work in gangs and that usually you will be "roughed" and pushed while your pocket is being picked.

SETS TRIAL FOR TWO IN BATTLE WITH POLICEMAN

John J. Keating and George Tracy, arrested after a pistol battle in which Patrolman Edward F. Daly of Brighton and Carlo Sbella, alleged thug, were wounded, the latter seriously, will go on trial in Superior Criminal Court Monday next, charged with the attempted holdup of a druggist in Brighton, and with assault with intent to kill Daly. Daly exchanged shots with the trio of alleged thugs when he frustrated the holdup by entering through a rear door. Sbella is still in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton. Judge Bishop has assigned for trial on the same day Ah Fong, a Chinese, charged with the murder of Chin Soon September 13 on Hudson street, in the so-called Boston tong war.

BOSTON INSURANCE CO. WINS U. S. TAX REFUND

The Boston Insurance Company of No. 87 Kilby street today won a refund of income taxes paid the Federal government on profits of $640,678 for the year 1916, by a decision in the U. S. Court of Claims at Washington. The company paid the tax, but claimed a refund on the ground that of its profits that year $640,678 was set aside as an additional reserve against unsettled loss claims because of requirement of the laws of New York State. It is understood that other insurance companies have made similar claims.

BRITISH RUM SHIP IS NABBED 27 MILES OUT

New London, Conn., Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Seizure late Saturday of the British schooner Ocean Maid with several thousand cases of liquor, 27 miles south of Block Island was reported to local coast guard headquarters by the destroyer Beale today. The seizure was said to be in accord with the liquor treaty fixing one hour's steaming distance of the shore as the new limit.

According to reports, the seizure of the Ocean Maid followed the capture of the speed boat Helen after the Helen had taken a load of liquor from the British vessel. The Beale fired several three-inch shells across the bow of the Helen, forcing her to stop.

When it was found that the Helen was equipped with three Liberty type motors of four-hundred horse power each, and capable of making 40 miles an hour, the Beale returned to the Ocean Maid for the cutter Mohave, later took schooner and the speed boat in tow for Norfolk, Va.

Three men were arrested on the Helen and eight taken into custody aboard the Ocean Maid.

LEVERHULME IN HUB TONIGHT

Lord Leverhulme, the titled soap king, was expected to arrive in Boston this evening from New York. He will stay at the Copley Plaza.

During his stay here Lord Leverhulme will visit scenes of historical and educational interest and inspect his company's plant in Cambridge. From there he will go to Canada to inspect his factories there. He has asserted his visit to the United States is in connection with his soap interests and not with a view toward disposing of any of his father's art treasures.

U. S. LEADS ALL WITH 8 BILLIONS IN EXPORTS

Washington, Nov. 23 (I.N.S.)—Taking the lead as an exporting nation the United States in 1925 will account for approximately one seventh of all the world's trade, the Department of Commerce disclosed today in a business review of the year ending June 30.

Fiscal year figures, expected to foreshadow even a more favorable position of the country for the 12 months ending December 31, show that out of a total world trade of $58,237,000,000, exports and imports of the United States represent $8,686,778,000.

SANTA AND DEER ARRIVE AT SEATTLE

Mrs. Kris Kringle Sends Message to Boston Kiddies by Snowbird Messenger

SANTA CLAUS, HIMSELF
"The deer've had some exercise,
And know the way by sight
From Seattle, clear to Boston light;
They could get there 'pure 'twas night,
Why, once I drove to Puget Sound,
And once to Behring Sea,
Just made those little trips up there,
To get a Christmas tree."

A snowbird flew from Alaska yesterday with a message to Boston Evening American from Mrs. Santa Claus and it told of some of the funniest things you ever heard.

You know the Eskimos understand pretty well what the reindeer say to each other. They don't understand everything, but the Eskimos are with the reindeer so much they get to understand a lot more than you or I ever would.

Well, when Santa told Mayowkwok the Eskimo, that he was going to put the reindeer team on board ship at Nome to take them down to the United States, there was the greatest rumpus you ever heard.

The reindeer got wind of what was going on and Blitzen was so mad he nearly ran away. It seems he thought Santa Claus was afraid the journey was too long for him and as he has traveled thousands of miles for Santa in years past he couldn't understand why he should be put on board ship.

DASHER IS LOYAL.

So Blitzen asked Dasher if he would stampede the team with him back to Icy Cape and Dasher said he wouldn't because he did not want to make Santa Claus feel bad.

One of the younger deer spoke up and told Blitzen they would disappoint all the little boys and girls of Boston if he didn't calm down and do what Santa Claus wanted him to do. Most of the deer thought that a sea trip would be lovely, as they had never had one before.

So little by little that mischievous Blitzen cooled off, but he still wanted to come down to Boston all the way on his own feet. Then Dasher reminded him that he would have quite a journey from Seattle when the ship landed them there, anyway, and after a nice breakfast of Arctic moss, Blitzen finally regained his usual good nature and agreed to go along.

BLITZEN KICKS.

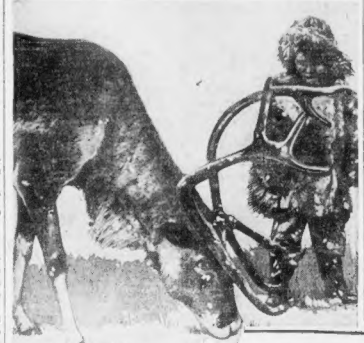
But now comes the funniest part of it all. No sooner had the Eskimo got the reindeer and the sleigh and all the presents on board ship than Blitzen commenced to kick up his heels and dance around with joy.

If Blitzen could write he would want to send postcards back to all the other reindeer at the time he was having. He stuck his head out a porthole and looked at the other ships and little boats that were passing, and the people on the other boats were so surprised at seeing Blitzen on a ship they didn't know what to make of it.

Isn't that just the way some people often act? Well, anyway, all is peace and harmony—the reindeer are arriving now in Seattle many interesting things are about to happen.

We, the Boston Evening American,

CHUMS OF GOOD ST. NICK IN NORTH



Oh, Boy! Don't you envy this Eskimo kiddie who is watching one of the reindeer that have just landed in Seattle from the North on their way here. This chap and his chum are coming with Santa.

P'ANT CLOSED, FEAR COLLAPSE

ago, a report was turned in to him a week ago by Building Inspector James J. Hendrick that the vibration of the printing presses had weakened the walls in such a way that he feared collapse.

Specifically, Hendrick pointed out that the alley wall of the six-story brick building, is cracked from the second floor to the roof.

The report also said that the brick curtail beneath the stair "header" like beam adjacent supporting the staircase upward is broken on the second floor level and the wood posts on the third and fourth floors are crushed.

The building sways, Hendrick's report stated, and vibrates under the strain when all presses are running or when heavy trucks are passing in the street.

Superintendent of Egress Oliver and Superintendent of Construction Roemer inspected the building today.

"I Paid the Price and You Paid the Bill," Wrote Alice

[illegible] The letters follow:

[illegible] Pelham road, New Rochelle, N. Y., January 14, 1922.

My Dearest Leonard—It's such a [illegible] to sit down again, and write you a few lines dear, but its [illegible] ahin, me to write you [illegible] but dearest, I have been awful weak, so you will after excuse me in this case. Really dear, I could never forget what I went through for you, but I loved you, so it could not be helped. And I would feel off half as sick if I had been with me dear, but I [illegible] impossible. Well dearest, you have been so nice in asking me, for what you can do for me.

Well Leonard, I guess I have done plenty for you, with both expenses and pain. And give you my company, and my spare moments. But Lenard, I do not care about that, because the both of us love each other.

Dearest, you can always have me, as my spare moments and service if you want me and I really no that you want me in the future. I never felt as happy, as I felt last evening with you dearest your warm lips, when they took mine, what a heavenly feeling what goes through me dear for you. I kiss your picture, every time I look at it and thats very often.

So dear do we you think its up to us. I mind say Len, you are a real gentleman you really have given me A-1 attention and never neglected me in any way, so in the future, I hope this will remain, because I love you darling. I have found you to be a real friend to me dear in every way. So I shall truly, stay with you forever.

And hope in future time, you will be always mind, because I love you.

And I want to care for you. As much as I can dear. I must tell you again Lenard, I thank you a million times for being so nice to me and also Kitty and I feel so happy that I have got this letter written to you because it has been worrying me about.

So just sit down, and think, Lenard, that you really have one girl friend, what really loves you from the bottom of her heart. And that's me.

I feel much better today. And in a few days hope to be well, but at first I will after be careful.

Will close Lenard love, Good Bye sweetie love.

ALICE.

WHEN THE DAY COMES.

Thursday 3 p. m., Paul Smith, N. Y., envelope postmarked July 1922.

Dearest Lenard

Hear I am alone in my bedroom, the folks all down stairs, playing the victrola, can you imagine how I feel hear alone, not a soul what I no, I am sorry in a way I came, because I feel as through, I have left something behind, and thats you my darling. Lenard I received your post card today of Yosemite. I think its beautiful the mountains, it reminds me of this place.

My darling for my part try and come out this way, but I have been terrible unhappy since I had [illegible] dream. I wished it was true darling. I can see you now, how you looked, and loved your poor Alice your arms could not love me enough.

I am so happy that you love me, and want your pid Alice to be your's.

You will make me the happiest girl, when I no you have given me your love and yourself to Alice I hope darling you have already made up your mind, I have made mind up what I am going to do with you. I hope dear you have received my letters at General deliver, and there is lots at general delivry in San Francisco, for you darest.

Do you love your baby, Len, like I live you. Do you remember the night, when you held my head on your shoulder, and you said, to me, remember Alice, I might be a good many miles away, but I shall never forget you. And do you remember how I cryed, that hearted me terrible inside of my heart. And my poor heart is still broken.

I adore all your poems and letters everything what you have given me. I suppose you are wearing my ring. I am wearing yours. I had a sport shirt waist on today, and had on that pretty tie of the dogs.

I adore that tie. Mrs. Alderson thought it was awful pretty, and she said I looked very nice, in sport clothes. I do hope you are will, and write me and and tell me what you think about my letter what I wanted to no. I had post card, from Sarl today wondering if he would make a date with me. He wanted to know when could see me, and where. Do you ever hear from him Lenard or do you write. Do not worry dearest, I shall make no dates outside of my darling.

What made you want to no when its my birthday. Mother is going to give me, and you a party, when you and I come home. Lenard did I tell you I had a lovely cabin on the train on Lower birth, there is lots of fun on the train I think. I love traveling, but when I travel, I want the one I love along with me.

I suppose Len, you are certainly spending a amount of money on this trip but never mind so long as you are enjoying life in seeing scenery. I have bought all of the views of Paul Smith, but I have layed them aside until I go home.

I will have no birthday this year just like yourself being away from home. Well darling please write all of mail hear after shall close lots of kisses. Lenard look under the stamp on the envelope. Good night dear, God bless you, now and always.

ALICE.

PEABODY'S COAL SELLS AT $14

Peabody, Nov. 23.—Clipping $2 a ton off the current coal price, the City of Peabody went into the coal business today through Mayor Robert A. Bakeman and will sell 100 pound lots at the ton rate of $14.

A cargo of 1,150 tons of Welsh coal will arrive this week, the Mayor announced, which will be a start toward the relief of the 20,000 ton shortage now facing the citizens besides the predicted rise of $5 per ton.

Fur Coats

Seal-Dyed Muskrat Coats

Year in and year out there is no fur more in demand than the seal-like development of muskrat called for lack of a better name, Seal-dyed Muskrat. Early in the season we determined to get together the best of these coats we could find for customers who do not wish to pay over $300 for a fur coat. We have replenished our stock from time to time but always there has been unusual value. These coats were bought for our regular stock and subjected to our exacting requirements as to style and quality of fur and workmanship. We have found nowhere a better coat for this price.

TURKEY DINNER FOR 5 MORE THAN $10

Price Rises to 75 Cents a Pound for Thanksgiving Holiday Buyers

Thanksgiving dinner—for the folks who are going to eat turkey, potatoes, and all the rest of the "fixin's" will cost the average family of five persons more than $10 this year. And that is going some, even for the dinner the Pilgrims started and the gourmands have made famous.

Turkey at 75 cents a pound! That's the price of the best Vermont or Northern New York bird that greets the prospective purchaser today. And potatoes. Well, from 75 cents to 90 cents the peck is still the quotation for the best grade down along market row.

Western birds may be obtained for 65 cents a pound.

"Turks are scarce this year," say market men, explaining the 75 cents price.

As for substitutes, goose or pork would seem to be the best bet. Fine Mansfield geese are quoted at 40 cents a pound, and choicest cuts of pork are the same price. Chicken is 60 to 65 cents a pound and good roast beef 40 to 60 cents.

Herman C. Lythgoe, director of the food and drug division of the State department of public health, estimates only 250,000 pounds of turkey in cold storage, an estimate which, if they were obliged to rely upon it, would force 97 out of every 100 families in the State to go without turkey on Thanksgiving Day

CARBEE ART STUDENTS IN FROLIC TOMORROW

The students of the Scott Carbee School of Art will give their annual frolic and Thanksgiving party tomorrow evening at the school studio, No. 126 Massachusetts avenue.

The frolic promises many quaint and entertaining features. The director and principal have allowed the students to take complete charge of the school for that time and will be guests under the auspices of the Student Committee.

The affair has been staged by the Misses Marion Bauer, Anne Sloane, Shirley Brown, Yvonne Bachand, Marie List and Mr. E. Richards Carle.

VANDERBILT'S PALACE OPEN TO 50-CENT CROWD

New York, Nov. 23.—The Fifth avenue chateau of William K. Vanderbilt, for four decades accessible only to the 400, is on public exhibition this week at 50 cents a head before wreckers start tearing down to make way for a 20-story office building.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Many Bostonians to Sail on First Trip of Conti Biancamano to Mediterranean

ALL SORTS OF MERRY plans are going forward for a gala first trip of the Conti Biancamano, newest beautifully appointed addition to luxurious trans-Atlantic craft. When she noses out into the stream and heads toward warm and sunny Mediterranean waters—early in December—many an itinerant Bostonian plans to be aboard for a pilgrimage Europeward.

JUST PRECEDING THE first sailing, there is a series of hospitalities by way of happy send-off—with, naturally, the Marquis Agotino Ferranti de Ruffino, the Royal Italian Consul-General, leading off.

BERMUDA AND her sub-tropical beauties call the George L. Batchelder, Jrs., that way for a late Autumn stay. They'll probably be away for four weeks, returning to their Beacon Hill establishment for the early Winter season and its brilliant program.

OTHER TRAVELERS include Roger Ernst of Memorial Drive, Cambridge, bound for foreign shores on a short business trip. T. Ambrose Calnan and his daughter, Miss Muriel A. Calnan (whose Boston home is the Hotel Touraine) are en route to their Paris apartment.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN A. Rogers, equally at home in Boston, New York and Washington, sail soon for a Winter abroad; the Rev. Charles H. Cutler of Waban has taken his family overseas on the Dante Alighieri, on which Mrs. Nellie F. Conant of Chestnut street also sailed.

JAMES OTIS, MEMBER of Boston's bachelor ranks, comes in next week on the Guiseppi Verdi, after a voyage of short duration. Mr. Otis, son of Mrs. Herbert Foster Otis and brother of Miss Mary Otis, was an usher in the smart squad Frederick Cameron Church, Jr., gathered for his marriage to Miss Vanderbilt.

(Photograph by Bachrach)

MISS THEODORA AYER, clever equestrienne, who will, on Thanksgiving Day, with her parents, the Charles Fanning Ayers, dispense a gay hospitality for the Myopia Set, the annual Hunt Breakfast.

MRS EDWARD C. STREETER, ball hostess at the Hotel Somerset tomorrow for her debutante daughter, Miss Helen Streeter, precedes that hospitality with a dinner for ushers and girls, as also does Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, who gives a dinner in the Green and Mahogany rooms before her dance on Friday.

THREE DEBUTANTES share honors at the Saltonstall ball—the twin Saltonstall girls, Miss Harriet and Miss Caroline and their cousin from Gotham, Miss Rose Auchincloss.

MRS. WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT (Emily Davies), who last Winter was a resident of Louisburg square, is planning a series of holiday festivities at "Oakland Farm," Portsmouth, R. I.

GUESTS ARE BIDDEN for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day at the "Farm" where the Vanderbilts dispense a charming and unostentatious hospitality. During their brief sojourn in Boston's upper circles they naturally made a host of friends.

GAY LITTLE BRIGHT yellow cards have gone out to a smart clientele from Mr. George C. Greener of the North Bennet Street Industrial School for the annual November exhibition and sale which brings before smart Bostonians his collection for foreign objects of art and piece of antique furniture.

COMMENCING WITH today's private view at which society will be out in force—this feast or loveliness continues daily through December 5. Mr. Greener has spent the past Summer in out-of-the-way spots all over Europe, and the collection he puts on view is a remarkable one, excelling even those of previous years.

PATRONESSES' NAMES form a list of imposing distinction—commencing with Mrs. Gordon Abbot and ending at the "W's" with Mrs. Moses Williams. Down its length may be noted the cognomens of Mesdames S. Parker Bremer, Francis B. Crowninshield, F. Murray Forbes, John Homans, Jr., Hampton Robb, Quincy A. Shaw, Eliot Wadsworth and others.

EVERYONE OF THE myriad North Bennet street school's well wishers knows Mr. Greener's penchant for the rare and beautiful—with a special leaning toward tapestries and weavings—so the wealth of beautiful things from England, Spain, Italy and France will be no surprise to those visiting the show rooms.

PLEASURE AND UTILITY IN PRIZES

Rich Rewards for Obtaining Members for WNAC American Women's Club

By MARTHA LEE.

Already quite a few of our active club members are writing for a goodly supply of application blanks to use for enrolling new members for the New Year and know you Lee Prize Contest.

This contest, you know, is open to the 21,441 members of the WNAC American Women's Club and is for the purpose of increasing the number of interested New England women now enrolled in this helpful club of no dues but many benefits.

All you have to do to compete for one of the valuable prizes so kindly donated by Boston merchants, is to tell your friends about the advantages of the WNAC American Women's Club and urge them to sign an application blank which you will send in.

These blanks are published on the Magazine Page of the Boston Evening American each Monday and Saturday. If you wish a number of extra blanks, I will be glad to send them to you.

SPLENDID PRIZES.

There are two wonderful major prizes, one a famous Hoosier Beauty Kitchen Cabinet in French gray and blue enamel. This is donated by the Arthur McArthur Company, No. 110 Washington street, Boston

The other major prize is a 6-tube A. C. Dayton Radio Set, donated by the A. C. Electrical Manufacturing Company of Dayton, Ohio. Best of all, the set is completely equipped with a Stentorfon loud speaker, A Vale A battery, Eveready B batteries, and 5 Cunningham tubes.

BEAUTY AND QUALITY.

The third prize is a beautiful Grove wrist watch, in a 14-karat white gold case, 15 jewel movement donated by Reagen, Kipp & Co., of Boston. Everyone knows the reputation Grove watches have established for reliability combined with beauty. This is a watch that any woman will be proud to own, and is valued at $35.00

The fourth prize will be equally dear to the housewife, a real mahogany tea wagon in the new brown finish with removable glass tray, rubber tired wheels and handle of beauty, valued at $30.00, donated by Penthudek, the well-known Blue Store of Roxbury.

The fifth prize consists of 6 real Wedgwood place-plates of English bone China, and also 6 of the newest clear glass cone soup plates, also used for melons or oysters. Even the home table boasts its place-plates nowadays, and the clear glass allows the full beauty of the exquisite plates to show through. This prize is donated by the Jones, McDuffee & Stratton Company of Boston.

The sixth prize is a complete bathroom equipment in the splendid Sno-Wite Enamel Ware, donated by the Standard Plate Glass Company of Boston. It consists of a plate glass shelf, plate glass mirror, Sno-Wite tooth brush holder, tumbler holder and soap dish. I am sure all of you are familiar with the super-quality of this beautiful ware, which will last the fortunate examiner a lifetime. Value $25.00.

The seventh prize is the new Doyle Dishwasher which any housewife would enjoy. This is an attachment that fits onto any faucet with a small cup container which holds soap. There is a hose attached with a nozzle through which the hot soapy spray or hot clear rinsy rays run. There are two spray brushes for pots and pans as well as a rack for the four holding dishes. This dishwasher is valued at $12.00.

COMBINATION GIFTS.

The next 25 prizes are combination gifts of the world-famous O'Cedar products. The eighth prize consists of big O'Cedar polish mop, dusting mop, floor duster, wall duster, hand duster, car wax, dust cloth and one gallon of O'Cedar polish.

Ninth prize, 2 O-Cedar mops, wall duster, hand duster, 1 lb. wax, dust cloth and one-half gallon O'Cedar polish.

The tenth prize, 2 O'Cedar mops, wall duster, hand duster, 1 lb. wax, dust cloth and one-half gallon O'Cedar polish.

The eleventh prize is composed of 2 O'Cedar mops, hand duster, floor duster, wall duster, dust cloth, and one-half gallon polish.

The twelfth prize, 2 O'Cedar mops, wall duster, dust cloth, 1 lb. wax, 1 quart polish.

Milady Shops

"Rain before seven Clear before Ten."

Won't be wishing away in your heart on a day like today if you're out splashing in the drops with a brand new Poll Parrot parasol. We saw one in a shop window this morning, and went in and purchased it for $10. It was all over a pansy purple from pearl rib to cunning handle, carved in the image of a Polly Parrot.

And as we marched along with raindrops trickling down our slicker we thought of little sister at home with no umbrell', no slicker, no nothin'. So we went back to the same umbrella shop and purchased one for her. A real Harvard crimson-hued one, made especially for little girls, each rib tip spiked in the new parlold and the umbrella flounces edged in schoolday checks. Exactly $3.75.

But our shopper's heart was confidentially cheered up on this rainy day o' days by the new velvet-topped glove.

Remember the good old days when Sir Walter Raleigh threw down the the gauntlet to start a fuss? Nowadays erring gallants should purchase them as peace tokens to ladies fairer. If they are careful to select the newest trick in gloves: delicate French kid in cocoa brown and pencil blue, cuffed in velvet to match the new velvet frocks of the season and displaying as a piece de resistance—a duster and 1 over puller.

The third-third, thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth prizes are three elaborate boxes of the Park & Tilford products, donated by the Park & Tilford Company. Each box contains Salesman's box contains one package each of all spice, cinnamon, ginger, cloves, lemon extract, tapioca, mustard, cream of tartar, vanilla extract, nutmeg, black pepper, red pepper, seasonings, baking soda and baking powder. Truly a prize worth having.

was silken handkerchief tucked in the glove cuff. Can be had for from $5.50 to $6 per pair.

Then, as we pressed our nose against another window pane—what should meet our eye but such a Surprising Something as to cause us to gallop hastily in to the nearest floor walker and gasp: "The Bonne Nuits—where are they?"

"Fourth floor," said he, calmly. And sure enough, there they were, the newest thing in bed dressings, known as "bed ensembles," alias "Bonne Nuits." They are exquisitely hemstitched crepe de chine sheets and pillowslips, in shades of powder blue, peach, rose or goldenrod yellow. The pillowslips are fashioned to button snugly over pillows and the entire ensemble of two sheets, two pillowcases, are to be had for $35 per ensemble.

But, pss-sst- here's a Christmas list tip. They are coming soon in linen and soft cottons at a much more attractive figure.

WOMAN IN RACE FOR CAR UNION VOTES

Miss Mary Sangster, candidate for assistant recording secretary of Boston Carmen's Union, canvassing at polling place and chatting with Conductor Crowley.

CARMEN HOLD PRIMARY

With one woman among the many candidates, the members of the Boston Carmen's Union voted today in primaries for nomination of their officers for the coming year.

Miss Mary Sangster is a candidate for assistant recording secretary. She voted among the first at the polling place in the Old Franklin School, Washington street, South End, and actively campaigned for votes among the hundreds of others who cast their ballots early.

The election will take place December 7, when the two receiving the highest votes for each office in today's balloting will be candidates.

Six candidates for nomination opposed President Charles H. Clark, who sought reelection, and two opposed Business Agent T. J. Regan. Nominations were also made for the offices of financial secretary-treasurer, recording secretary, assistant secretary, conductor, sentinel and executive board.

SIMPLE RITES FOR ALEXANDRA

Sandringham, Eng., Nov. 23 (A.P.)—In the quietude of the dimly lighted little church in Sandringham four servants of the royal household watch beside the home-made oak coffin in which lies the body of Dowager Queen Alexandra.

With the purest simplicity the coffin was taken over the path which Alexandra was wont to use in going from the palace to the church to offer up her devotions.

Simplicity also marked the service which was held later. The minister delivered a tribute to Alexandra, but did not preach a sermon. The service was attended by King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales, other royal personages, with them mourned a large number of the regular members of the congregation.

Until Thursday, when the body will be taken to Westminster Abbey for the funeral services on Friday, the little church here will be open daily so that those who desire may pass by the bier and pay their respects to the beloved woman whom many of them had known or seen in Sandringham.

After the ceremony in Westminster Abbey the body of the Queen Mother will be taken to Windsor Castle. There on Saturday it will be laid beside that of her husband, King Edward VII., under the Albert Memorial Chapel, in which they were married in 1863.

SIMMONS GIRL DRAGGED FIFTY FEET BY TRAIN

Student Saved by Baggage Man's Quick Wit at the Peabody Station

Herbert Morrison, a baggageman, saved Miss Lena Shnirman, 18-year-old Simmons College student, from death today when she slipped and was dragged, clinging to a guard rail, 50 feet by a Boston-bound train at the Peabody railroad station.

She was taken to her home at No. 125 Lowell street, Peabody, lacerated and bruised and with her clothes nearly torn off.

The train was stopped just as the girl was losing her hold. Her skin was penetrated by a mass of cinders. Miss Shnirman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shnirman. Morrison lives in Danvers.

WEBSTER HAYNE PAINTING FOR CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Moves for Removal of $40,000 Painting From Faneuil Hall

An inspiration for more eloquence and oratory in City Hall is likely to be forthcoming in the near future, for today Mayor James M. Curley ordered Superintendent of Public Buildings John P. Englert to confer at once with Architect Ralph Adams Cram relative to removal of the famous painting, "Webster's Reply to Hayne," from Faneuil Hall to the City Council Chamber.

Architect Cram, who was retained by Mayor Curley some time ago to restore Faneuil Hall to as near its revolutionary-time appearance as possible, is known to favor the removal of the painting, which is by G. P. A. Healey, completed in 1850, and which has graced the rear of the platform at the world-famous hall since 1870.

Mr. Cram has already recommended to the Mayor that the painting be removed, saying that a beautiful feature of the architecture is hidden by it and that the picture is too large for Faneuil Hall.

Mayor Curley has been reluctant to order the removal of the painting, feeling that no suitable place for the classic was available.

With the changes to be made to the Council chamber at City Hall Annex, the Mayor believes the painting might be placed there.

The painting cost $40,000.

SHENANDOAH MAN REFUTES ARMY CRITIC

Gas Tubes Closed Only Fifteen Minutes Before the Airship Crashed

Washington, Nov. 23 (A.P.)—Arthur E. Carlson, aviation chief rigger of the wrecked Shenandoah, told the Shenandoah naval court today that one of the surviving officers of the airship, Lieutenant C. Bauch, had told him not to give certain information to the court unless it was asked for specifically.

This information, which Carlson withheld when he first testified at Lakehurst, was that fifteen minutes before the Shenandoah broke up he had closed off at amidships the internal gassing manifold connecting the helium gas cells and designed to permit equalization of the gas in the individual cells.

The testimony was in rebuttal of a statement by Major Frank P. Kennedy last week that four of the tubes were found closed.

Carlson testified that he stopped up the manifold on his own initiative because helium was rushing to the after cells and the ship already was up by the stern.

Asked why he had not given the court this information before, he said he did not regard it as "material to the inquiry."

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE
Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during this Critical Time

Baltimore, Md.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along but tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. E. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmor St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women benefited by

A Girl's Soul Stirs and She Wonders Why; Going Out Into the World to Learn of Love

SYNOPSIS

NANCY HAWTHORNE, motherless, lives in an English country village with her father. She has an experience with Curly Collins, a country boy she has befriended. She discusses what occurs with her father. Then comes a strange stirring and she decides to see the world. In Paris she meets Cornelia Evans, daughter of an American millionaire. The girls form a studio partnership. They give a housewarming. Nancy meets Jean de Courcy, French cavalry lieutenant, who pursues Cornelia. She also meets Count de Bercy Mormal, a man who accosted her in the street. The Count is Cornelia's brother-in-law. Nancy scornfully rejects his friendship. Lloyd Evans, Cornelia's brother, and his chum, Bob Whittaker, Oxford undergraduates, telegraph their coming to Paris. Nancy is strangely affected by the news and stirred by Bob.

You must say "QUICK QUAKER"

To get true Scotch flavor—famous Quaker Oats flavor—in quick cooking oats

THE difference in breakfast oats is flavor. Oats, originally a Scotch dish, must have Scotch flavor.

Quick Quaker has the toasty Scotch flavor that is so wonderful . . . famous Quaker Oats flavor.

No other brand has it. None successfully imitates it. It's due to exclusive Quaker milling of the finest, plumpest oats. Milling methods which ... to perfect.

Make a comparison of the world Quaker Oats with like for many brands of oats. Cook in 3 to 5 minutes. No kitchen muss, busy mornings.

Due to Quaker milling methods, it acts, too, the "touchage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

Look for the picture of a Quaker on the oats you get.

T FOR TETLEY'S

Try It the English Way

No matter how heartily we feast Thanksgiving noon, Thanksgiving night usually finds all the dear in-laws gathered 'round the board looking just as hungry as though they hadn't attended the casualty of their tummies to the tune a few hours before. Don't have it on your conscience however, that a hearty supper proved the straw that broke a camel's back!

A club sandwich made from the remnants of the feast and a pot of fragrant tea with maybe a filled cooky or chilled cup custard certainly should prove ample. And of course when we think of tea we think of Tetley's, the wonderful orange pekoe blend that Joseph Tetley & Company of London have supplied to Britain for more than a century. If you are not already a Tetley lover, do try it at Thanksgiving made the English way. You will find it a real T treat—at the same price as ordinary tea.

This is how to make Tetley's the real English fashion: Rinse an earthenware teapot with boiling water. Put in one teaspoon of tea for each cup. Pour fresh boiling bubbling water on it. Keep for five or six minutes and serve at once with milk or cream. One pound of Tetley's makes three hundred cups.

If you have not written me for a sample already I will gladly send you one. I want every member of the WNAC American Women's Club to be acquainted with this wonderful member of the Tea family. I have had a great deal of letters already from our members thanking me for introducing them.

FOR THANKSGIVING DINNER

Cold Sauce For the Pudding

Miss Curtis' MARSHMALLOW CREME

15 cents a ½ pint, 25 cents full pint

Gives Even More Deliciousness to Good Things to Eat

MISS EMMA CURTIS, Melrose, Mass.

Great on all Desserts

THANKSGIVING DESSERTS SUPREME

While it is doubtful if any dessert will ever take the place of the traditional spicy, delicious, but undeniably rich and indigestible plum pudding, it is becoming customary to at least offer holiday guests a choice of desserts for the grand finale of the Thanksgiving feast. I find that no matter how hearty the meal, most everyone does "thanker" for a little taste of something sweet at the end of the dinner and yet is satisfied at a great big serving of hearty, rich plum pudding.

One of the simpler desserts served with marshmallow creme (and surely there isn't a finer marshmallow creme than that made by Miss Emma L. Curtis of Melrose) is an excellent answer to the pudding problem.

A simple chocolate bread pudding served hot with Curtis Marshmallow Creme thinned with milk so that it may be readily poured over the pudding is especially delicious. Or you might serve a fruit custard made by filling sherbert glasses with slices of oranges and bananas mixed, then pouring over this enough boiled custard to cover and topping with Curtis Marshmallow Creme. Coffee souffle with the marshmallow creme sauce is another delicious possibility. The marshmallow creme you know may be easily thinned with milk, thin cream, coffee or fruit juices of any kind, using as much liquid as cream.

If you will drop me a line for one of Miss Curtis' interesting and reliable recipe books, I am sure you will find many other helpful suggestions for everyday as well as Thanksgiving use. Best of all, when you are driving through Melrose, do stop for a visit at this shining clean, interesting factory. Miss Curtis will make you most welcome and you'll find many things to interest you.

Recipes for Parts of Today's Menus

PINEAPPLE AND PEACH SALAD

4 slices of fresh or canned pineapple, 16c

4 halved preserved peaches, 10c

Hearts of lettuce, 10c

Mayonnaise Marshmallow Dressing, 8c

Wash the lettuce and after shaking each leaf, wrap loosely in a clean cloth and lay on ice for one hour or more to crange the lettuce on cold salad plates. Lay one slice of pineapple in each lettuce cup and then a halved peach, round side up. Cover with fruit salad dressing made by blending equal parts of Curtis Marshmallow Creme and rich mayonnaise. If too thick, dilute with a little lemon juice or water.

Total cost of Pineapple and Peach Salad, 50c. Serves 4. Cost per person, 12½c.

HOT WATER SPONGE CAKE WITH SAT-TEN FUDGE FROSTING

3 egg yokes, 12c

1 cup of sugar, 4c

1 cup of flour, 2c

1 teaspoon of baking powder, 1c

1 tablespoon of lemon juice, 1c

2 tablespoons of hot water

3 egg whites, 12c

¼ teaspoon of salt

⅓ cup Sat-Ten Chocolate Sauce, 10c

⅓ cup confectioners' sugar, 3c

Beat the egg yokes until lemon colored and thick. Add the sugar and continue beating. Add the flour mixed and sifted with the baking powder and salt, hot water and the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff, to which the lemon juice has been added. Pour into a buttered and papered pan and bake in a moderate oven thirty to forty minutes. Frost with Sat-Ten Fudge Frosting made by stirring ⅓ cupful of confectioners' sugar into ⅓ cupful of Sat-Ten Immediate Chocolate Sauce.

Total cost of Hot Water Sponge Cake with Sat-Ten Fudge Frosting, 45c. Serves 8. Cost per person, 5½c.

FRIEND VEGEX AT THANKSGIVING

I am so glad to know that more and more members of the WNAC American Women's Club are becoming acquainted with Vegex and are using it in making delicious dishes which the whole family enjoy. Vegex is so easy to prepare.

I know that those of you who already have a jar of Vegex on their pantry shelf are going to use it in getting up the big Thanksgiving feast and if you haven't a jar already, I suggest investing in one at your very next trip to the grocer's.

You know Vegex can be made not only into a most delicious beverage by adding hot water but mixed with cream it is one of the best and easiest spreads I know of. It is wonderful, good on salad dressing too—in fact has a hundred different uses. A little added to the Thanksgiving soup will whet the appetite and stimulate the gastric juices so there will be greater enjoyment of the meal.

Vegex added to the stuffing of the turkey, goose or fowl will improve the flavor of the dressing and aid digestion. Mixed with ground nuts and cream cheese Vegex makes an excellent stuffing for Thanksgiving celebrities. If you are going to have a cold supper together with a chafing dish spread the toast strips with Vegex butter.

I have just heard that Mrs. Luther Burbank, wife of the famous botanist is a staunch admirer and consumer of Vegex. In fact, one of the members of the American Women's Club mentioned in the following her example each week and incorporating Vegex in their daily menus.

If you haven't a jar of Vegex in your pantry, don't forget. I have now obtained many very fine recipes and interesting information about Vegex and children's diets, too.

PRINCE ALBERT never owned a teething-ring, because it never had teeth! And never will. The Prince Albert process cut out bite and parch right at the beginning. And your tongue says "Thank you!" every time you load up that old jimmy-pipe with cool, comfortable P. A.

Watch the sun break through the smoke-clouds the minute you get going with good old P. A. Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A.'s true-blue smoke zooms up the stem and throws pipe-grouches for a loss. You'll feel like a boy with his first week's pay. Never any tobacco that rang the bell like that before.

Men who gave up trying to smoke a pipe have tried again with Prince Albert . . . and stuck! Because P. A. has what smokers want—deep-down satisfaction and no regrets. Genuine pipe-pleasure and no mistake. You'll say so.

And not only do you get quality in Prince Albert, but quantity as well. There are TWO full ounces in every tidy red tin. Just take a look at the U. S. revenue stamp. It's there in Uncle Sam's own wording. Get yours today. Every minute counts when you're just hankering for a real smoke.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half pound tin humidors and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Look at the U. S. revenue stamp—there are TWO full ounces in every tin.

This truly unique blend cannot be copied – or even imitated

The taste you find here you can't find elsewhere

THERE are forty-odd steps in the making of the Chesterfield blend; change any one and you change the taste—it is no longer Chesterfield.

More complicated than the average, to be sure; it is no job at all to produce a standardized cigarette of the average sort—and if good tobaccos are used, the result will be reasonably pleasing, too.

It is when you depart from the commonplace that difficulties enter—particularly when, as in Chesterfield, it is required that the full tobacco character be retained. For it is not enough then to use standard methods, nor even to average up crops from year to year to maintain tobacco uniformity. That spicy, rich mildness and that satisfying fullness which distinguish Chesterfield are secured by the most exacting balancing of one tobacco against another, to tone down heaviness or over-richness, and to bring out in fullest measure those subtle "overtones" which set it apart so definitely from all other cigarettes.

The natural methods by which this "balance" is achieved are unique—as distinctive in their field as is the technique or phrasing of a master pianist in his field—and is the result of long practice and thorough knowledge. And when we say that the Chesterfield blend cannot be copied, we mean it literally—not because it is patented or legally protected, nor even because it is a secret closely held, but because without detailed knowledge of every step, the rare delicacy of the tobaccos themselves is inevitably lost.

No—there is only one cigarette that combines so fully the aroma of Turkish and the "body" of Domestic tobaccos; there is only one blend of which men say, "They're mild—and yet they satisfy!" For men who want natural tobacco taste at its smooth and mellow best, there is only one cigarette—and that cigarette is Chesterfield.

and the windows without curtains are like blind eyes. But in some odd way, merely to sit in a spot and ... at it makes one want to write love songs. Lloyd and I often go up there and drift back by moonlight." He stopped, suddenly remembering with a smile the last occasion when they had floated downstream—Tillie beside him in the narrow punt, his head pillowed upon her breast, while Lloyd made Hawaiian moanings with an ukulele.

FAT MOTIONLESS

And Nancy, unaware of yesterday heard only words and not the spirit of today. "Oh, lucky you!" she said. "That must have been perfect."

Bob looked at her. "Almost," he said. They smiled.

Neither moved. It was as though both was expecting the other to say something, something momentous. Suddenly the street lamps blazed out.

Then, "Let's go home and have tea," said Nancy, and with faraway eyes she fell into step.

As they crossed the street a taxi darted past, just missing them. Startled Nancy out of her dream. She found, to her surprise, that she had linked her hand through his arm. She had never done that before, not even with Lloyd.—She let her hand stay there.

The rendezvous that night for dinner was at the D'Harcourt.

A little flurry of snow was blowing when Nancy and Bob pushed open the door into the light and warmth to find the others already waiting at a corner table.

Lloyd waved a menu. "I was just betting Cornelia that you two had eloped. Bob, old man, you disappoint me! What was it Shakespeare got off about neglected opportunity's binding one forever to shallows and miseries? To keep to the language of the period, you are a nit-wit—Nancy, come and sit here. I claim your attention for the rest of the evening." He took Nancy's arm and steered her to a place beside him on the seat.

Bob sat down beside Cornelia. "Hello" he said, "how did you get on with your family?"

Cornelia's nose wrinkled. "Duty is as duty does," she said "Rita certainly picked a lemon when she grabbed that title."

AN OBJECT LESSON

"You're right," said Lloyd. "Let it be an object lesson to you two girls. Don't wait till the last call for dinner. Warmed-over stuff like our respected brother-in-law is bound to cause indigestion, and as marriage is the keystone" . . .

A fork from Bob interrupted him. "Oh, lord! Give him food or drink—anything, if you want to save yourself from his dissertation on marriage!"

Lloyd looked at him. "And you from a rostrum!" he said with infinite reproach. "What is coming to the good manners of England when a parson's son cannot listen twice to the same dissertation without rude interruptions? Nancy, I apologize for my fellow Oxonian." His voice dropped to a gentler note of pompous tolerance. "A mere preacher, you understand. Hasn't fully absorbed the traditions. Doesn't quite strike the academic note; but promising, distinctly promising—Now, as I was saying, marriage and hanging go by destiny. Some woman—"

The arrival of the soup might have been expected to have a retarding influence upon Lloyd's oratory. It acted, on the contrary, as a fillip. The interjections of ... seia and Bob were stimulants to his good humored fooling.

Nancy heard herself laughing and talking as if she were some one she was ... a sort of a dream as the ... ... brain ceased ... on duty to look after it. Nancy who was having dinner, the rest of her detached disembodied, not concerning herself in terms of words, but just existing as a glowing warmth, a benevolence, a satisfaction in the inner depths of which dwelt Bob.

The talk had switched to Oxford. Both men were out to get their blue.—Lloyd on the track and Bob with the ring. It could be seen that their willingness ... a ... ... it for the moment ... ... attitude represented the sum of their ambitions. Their mention of "next term" was made almost slightingly as though Oxford was the most boring place on earth, but ... ... did not disguise the gleam that came into their eyes as they ... ... of what Scandal So had done during the vacation, what he had seen on a march on them and gone ... training yet. It was obvious that "next term" and its possibilities were to be their hearts ...

"What ... to have to go?" asked Cornelia.

AN INVITATION

"Next Friday," said Bob. "Why don't you two come over and spend a week-end? We can offer you a sofa, but we could pitch you ... a little." His eyes sought Nancy's. As she looked at Bob she knew that his invitation was for her. What did next Friday matter? Oxford or Cambridge? Or Oxford? Little things like time and space. I let them. They couldn't interfere with the fullness of her satisfaction, which was something too ... ... for. Something independent even of Bob's presence. Like Dad, who was miles away. Bob was within her kingdom, occupying a definite place, representing certain lasting values. Beyond that, at the moment, she did not go. Of course Cornelia, Lloyd and Jean were there too, in a way, but they were an entirely different affair, on the outer rim, as it were, sentinels on the frontier.

Corne ... declined the weekend.

Nancy smiled. That didn't matter either. Everything was just beginning.

"At the first hint of spring," said Cornelia, "I'm going to cable Papa to let me get a car. I'm going to be the most caioling cable a man ever got. Then Nancy and I are going to run around quite a little, before I'm ... Incidentally we're going to swing a golf stick to some purpose."

Lloyd's ears pricked up. "Are you a golf fan, Nancy?"

"Is she!" cried Cornelia. "I believe she'd give you a half and trim you."

RUINED TURF

"You don't eat ... said Lloyd Why, here's a unexpected treasure deeping to deep, and so on." He tucked his hand through her arm. "Who have you been hiding your light under a bushel, Nancy? Let us discuss the merry warm cast and the violet-tinted thread. Bob and I have ruined more acres of queasy turf at Cowley than any other four duffers who ever went forth with keg from the city of Spires. What do you shoot?"

"Meaning, what a my handicap?" laughed Nancy.

"I apologize," said Lloyd. "When ever I get excited I invariably lapse into the vernacular."

"Well," said Nancy "you see I've only played at home, at Brinkley. And it's a tiny nine-hole course with ... ...

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"LET'S ask riddles," suggested Bobby one night as we sat before the open fire, popping corn.

"I know a story about a man who accomplished a great feat and became king because he could answer a riddle, Bobby, said I.

"I'd rather hear about him than tell riddles, Foxy Grandpa, if you don't mind," Bobby said.

"Once upon a time in ancient Greece there was a great king who ruled over the kingdom of Thebes. And in those days people were very superstitious and believed in prophecies and oracles.

"Now, as it happened, it had been foretold that this kind would be killed by his own son. And since people were different from us in those days, the king, when a son was born, carried it far out into the woods to leave it there to perish.

"The baby's name was Oedipus, and the king went back to his palace thinking that he was very secure and would not have to worry about the prophecy coming true.

"But a herdsman walked through the forest about this time and hearing the cries of the infant, went at once to find him. The herdsman was a very kind man, took the baby in his arms and carried him to his home in Corinth and brought him up.

"Oedipus grew up into a fine man, not dreaming that he was a king's son and very loyal to Corinth, his city.

"Corinth and Thebes were enemies—the two cities were always fighting with each other—and once in a conflict Oedipus met the King of Thebes—not knowing he was his father—and slew him as he would have slain any enemy.

"Oedipus was very much surprised to know that the king of Thebes was dead, because he did not even know that the enemy he had slain was the king.

"Thebes was in great distress at that time—not only because their king was dead, but because there was a great monster which crouched on a hill near Thebes waiting to kill anyone who passed by. This creature had the body of a lioness and the face of a woman. It was called the Sphinx.

"The reason she wished to kill all who came near her was because no one could answer her riddle.

"But Oedipus was a very courageous man, and when he passed the Sphinx one day he went boldly up to her and asked her what this great riddle was that no one could answer.

"What was it, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby.

"This was the riddle," I replied. "What is it—a wonderful creature—that first goes on four legs, then on two, and at last on three?"

"Did Oedipus guess it, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby.

"Immediately," I declared. "The riddle was hardly out of the mouth of the Sphinx before Oedipus shouted 'Man.'

"And he was right. Because at first man crawls on his hands and knees. Then he walks on two feet and when he is an old man uses a walking stick. So when the Sphinx heard this she rolled over dead.

"The people of Thebes were so grateful to be delivered from this monster that at once they crowned Oedipus king.

"But in after years Oedipus found out what an unfortunate thing he had done. Then he gave up his kingdom and putting on rags like a beggar, wandered off into the forest."

"That was too bad," said Bobby.

"Yes" I answered, "but he had saved a nation and he had a love for daughter who accompanied her father and made his last years very happy."

Piles! For those who do manual labor, piles are serious! What a pity all men do not know exactly what to do with piles! Don't you suffer pain, or a lay-off on account of them! Do this:

Go to any druggist in any town, and get a thirty-cent box of Pyramid pile suppository. They always work wonders—with pain in any form—and the man who tells them to you will tell you so. How soon bring it to you feel it at once; pain let up. Men and women who have itching, bleeding, tender piles will bless the name Pyramid from the moment they first use it! 60 cents a box.

All you need say to your druggist is "Pyramid." Or, you may have a free box plainly wrapped, by just sending your name and address to Pyramid Drug Co., 200 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Michigan.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes will no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

THESE are the harvests life gave me to glean, these are the fruits of the years, this is the end that was never foreseen either by Sophia or Jerrd. Treasures of memory, shining like pearls, shimmering out of the gloom, ripples of light where time's darkest tide whirls, stars that no light can entomb; brief bits of happiness, measures of pride, these are the fruits of the years; these and the baby feet close by my side, new baby pleasures and fears. Could I have chosen in years long ago, would I have sought for these prizes? How was I, blind to the future, to know worth of a baby's gay wiles? How could I know that the best would be this after the passage of years, memories like pearls of a baby's soft kiss, baby's shrill laugh and swift tears?

The kids nowdays are a fresh bunch, sed Pa. I fear they will be vary ordinarry men wen they are grown up, sed Pa.

I doant know what sum of them will be, I sed, but I am going to be heevywate champeon of the world.

You are, are you? rest Pa. You haf it all fixed, haf you?

You bet, I sed. All the grate champeons was littel boys onst.

Vary true, Bobbie, sed Pa, but wen they was littel boys they shuvveled snow with thare arms & didnt use snow plows, sed Pa. That is how thare arms got so tuff & strong.

I didnt think of that, I sed. Maybe I will use a shuvvel too.

You bet you will use a shuvvel, sed Pa. I used a shuvvel wen I was littel. & if a shuvvel was good enuff for me it will be good enuff for you, sez Pa. Forgit yure fancy snow plow, Bobbie, sez Pa.

Well, in any cevent, sez Ma, we mighi wait till the snow falls beefore we git all steemed up argooing about shuvveling it off, sed Ma.

Who is steemed up? sed Pa. A who started this talk about snow?

I guess I did, sed Ma. X-cuse me for beeing in the Land of the Living, deer, sed Ma. I will now reemove myself from the pictor, sed Ma, & wash the dishes & do the rest of the household Drudgery, sed Ma.

I dount know what is Drudgery, but it must be sumthing terrible or Ma wudden't mak such a fuss wen she sed it, there is so many terribul things in this world that peopul can't help from making terribul faces.

FINANCE

By B. C. FORBES—

Wall Street is taking more sober by and this should have a beneficial effect on business.

Legitimate business has not been alarmed at all by the raising of the Federal Reserve discount rate at Boston, Cleveland, Philadelphia, and San Francisco, to 4 per cent. Trustworthy commercial paper can be placed on terms quite satisfactory to the borrowers. Had the bold speculators who were forcing up collateral stocks to unprecedented levels in Wall Street been sure of their ground, they would not have become nervous, week after week, lest a 4 per cent. discount rate be named by the New York bank. It was because these manipulators were conscious of the vulnerability of their position that they were so fidgety.

The bank figures at New York do not call for any increase in the discount rate. Conditions have been straightened by the rather severe shakedown in the stock market. Moreover, the relations existing between the central banking authorities in London and here are now so close and friendly that the disposition here has been to take international as well as local and national conditions into consideration.

Consequently, the discount rate here may be left undisturbed for the present. But even should the modest rate of 4 per cent. be fixed, it will have no adverse effect upon business and it is doubtful if it would have more than a passing effect upon stock market operations.

Business on the whole, is moving along reasonably satisfactorily. Conservative buying is still the rule. In two or three rather important lines a little disappointment has been experienced. The recent improvement in cotton goods, for example, has not broadened as had been hoped. The rubber industry is suffering from too dear raw material. The oil industry is still afflicted by overproduction. Shoe goods retailers are not going much hurrahing. Automobile production and sales continue at satisfactory levels.

But this is outweighed by favorable developments in other directions, including steel production and prices, building activity, railroad traffic, furniture trade, our foreign trade, the demand for labor, wheat prices, etc.

Expectations are that holiday buying will break all records.

JULY WHEAT SELLS AT NEW TOP FOR SEASON

Chicago, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—Active profit-taking pulled down the wheat market today after early advances in which the July delivery reached a new high price record for the season. Opening prices unchanged to 1¾ higher, were as follows: December $1.60⅝ to 1.61 and May $1.57¼ to 1.57⅝, were followed by declines to $1.58¾ for December and $1.55⅝ for May. Corn and oats eased down a little.

FANCY PRICES FOR CARRIERS ARE FORECAST

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor

Those who bought railroad stocks when they were at their low prices for last year or this, as a rule have little ground to complain about getting small dividends. The vast majority of such buyers can sell their carrier stocks and reap a profit that would exceed the most optimistic dividend calculations possible for a period of several years.

E. V. Jaeger, formerly of Boston, now writing the market letter for a leading New York Stock Exchange house, says we may expect "fancy prices for them (the high priced rails) before the present rail movement culminates." He names Chesapeake, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific and Atchison, the last named the rail reputed most largerly held in New England among the dividend payers, as the logical leaders.

At a New England Traffic Club gathering at the Copley Plaza recently I noticed C. L. Bardo, formerly general manager and right power of the New Haven, who has just been elected vice-president of the American Brown Boveri Corporation, in charge of the railway division. It seemed odd to see Mr. Bardo occupying a seat among the executives instead of the railway, the "high light" guests of the evening behind the broadcasting microphones of the speakers' table.

One of the outstanding events directly concerning the Boston Stock Exchange list is the purchase of Ventura Consolidated Oil Fields, a strictly local enterprise, by California Petroleum Corporation. California has more than 679,000 of Ventura's nearly 800,000 shares today.

There have been admitted to the Boston Stock Exchange list temporary certificates for 1,223,658 common shares out of an authorized issue of 2,400,000 shares of the new California Petroleum Corp. with authority to add thereto, on notice of issue and payment as set forth, 854,946 additional shares, William P. Montgomery, Jr., will act as odd-lot specialist in the common shares of California Petroleum Corp.

National Association of Woolen and Worsted Overseers has chosen these officers for 1925-1926: James Burns of Washington, D. C., president; Ralph Dunford of Providence, R. I.; Otto Ruhlin of Wilton, Me., and Arthur Greenwood of Bridlington, Vt., vice presidents; J. H. Pickford of Webster, secretary; Thomas Bolian of Hough's Neck, treasurer; William E. Davison of Putnam, Conn., treasurer of the beneficiary department; Robert J. Harrington of Providence, R. I., auditor, and P. J. Harney of Milford, trustees.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Buy New England goods — support New England industries — best in the world.

Sane Ideals Possessed by President Coolidge

New England has a two-fold influence on minds. Its rocky farms are so hard to gouge a living from that they beget industry, frugality, tenacity.

They are, in the main, hill farms. And no man can live in the hills without acquiring the habit of looking up. So it is that New England gives us minds endowed with the double quality of practicality and idealism.

So it is that as the mind of Calvin Coolidge develops under the stress of his great office it is revealed as a particularly fine example of the New England mind.

No commentator on the present state of the nation has expressed its spirit of today more accurately or more adequately than President Coolidge did in his speech to the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York last Thursday night.

Our own apologists, no less than foreign critics, are constantly making the mistake of calling us either selfish dollar chasers or wild idealists. The President showed we are neither.

His words will be listened to abroad; in France particularly, we hope. They will dispel the pernicious confusion spread there by busybodies who say we will forget debts seriously pledged us and by the justly firm determination of the Government to collect what is due us, for the debtor's sake as well as for our own.

President Coolidge began with a merited good word for New York. He praised the wisdom of the fathers in separating Washington from it. But he pleaded for intelligent co-operation between Washington and New York as the capital of politics and the capital of business.

He proceeded to show what such co-operation had done for the United States in the last five years. Down to essentials it is this: That in 1920 wages were 100 per cent. above pre-war rates and the cost of living 120 per cent.; today wages are 120 per cent. above pre-war rates and the cost of living but 57 per cent.

His whole theme, convincingly developed, was that the ideal of business honor is the most salutary ideal in the world today. Applied at home it brought us prosperity. Applied abroad, it will bring stabilization and prosperity there, too.

How directly his words were addressed to France may be measured from these sentences:

"There remain nine nations, with debts in the principal amount of $3,673,342,362, which have not yet been settled. Of the nine nations France represents $3,340,000,000; Greece, $15,000,000 and Yugoslavia, $51,000,000. Of the remaining six, Rumania is now negotiating a settlement, Nicaragua is paying currently and a moratorium for twenty years has been granted Austria by Act of Congress. Armenia has ceased to exist as a nation, the Government of Russia has not been recognized, and Liberia owes but $26,000."

The President has not dunned France. He has merely allowed the logic of bookkeeping to set her forth in the company of Greece, Yugoslavia, Nicaragua, amputated Austria, wiped out Armenia, Soviet Russia—and Liberia.

How will the proud French people like that? Will they turn from it to the picture of what intelligent co-operation between government and business can do, has done, in the United States?

If President Coolidge's words can bring France to this change of view they will be as important to the world at large as they are to the continued enjoyment of prosperity at home.

They will be so important that the President's last plea last Thursday—that the United States join the League's international court—will not be needed. There, we believe, Calvin Coolidge's hillman's sentiment carried away his hard farmer's head.

A United States showing the way to international justice by her own example is more effective for law and for peace than a United States entangled in a court which is such only by virtue of its name.

Organization Pays

It Is What the Farmers Need

Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, hit the nail on the head the other day when he told the bankers that what the farmers of the country need is organization.

Organization has done wonders for the manual workers in other fields.

Organization is the order of the day in banks and business companies.

And there is no reason why the farmers should not organize. They have organized on the Pacific Coast and that is one reason why they are so prosperous.

There are two elements in successful farming, as in everything else.

One is to raise sufficient and proper products, and the other is to market them.

In the matter of marketing, organization is the chief factor.

The citrus growers of California have paved the way in showing how great benefits arising from organization may be had by the original growers of fruit and not by some manipulator.

Successful organization of and by producers does not necessarily mean high prices to consumers—often exactly the contrary.

The United Fruit Company, that organized the banana and other fruit growers of the West Indies, cheapened the fruit in all United States seaboard cities and made many millions for itself by doing it.

Golden Coffins

Tut-ankh-amen, who died twenty centuries ago in Egypt, has recently been disentombed by Howard Carter, the American Egyptologist. He was found in a golden coffin.

No expense was spared to preserve his body.

About all the money that some people make amounts to a golden coffin. The acquisitive instinct lasts longer than any other and holds on even until death.

Many people seem to be concerned principally with providing themselves with golden coffins or to encase themselves with much money after they are dead.

But the only worth-while monument any man can leave after he is gone is an endowment or an idea that makes this world a better place to live in for those that come after him.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

WELL-KNOWN judge says that wives and husbands should go on two or three vacations a year, but not together.

THEY have to go separately or it's no vacation.

ONE couple fought so much that when they took a trip to Europe they went on a battleship.

THEY used to fight all the time. Their relatives even had to separate their pictures.

THEY hung the wife in the hall and tacked the husband up in the nails.

AND the husband had such a hard face that he broke three nails.

ONE guy made a study of mental telepathy so that he could crab at his wife by long distances.

HE used to thing such terrible things about her that she had to put asbestos pads over her ears.

SHE was in New York last Summer while he was in Detroit and he sent her such contemptible thoughts that she had him arrested by night letter.

THIS judge told him he'd have to do some sweeter thinking or go to jail.

THE court paroled him in the custody of two mind readers to see that he obeyed the law.

Keep the Flag Flying

To the Friend of the People:

That incident of drawing in Old Glory on Beacon street during the peace parade makes my blood boil. That girl did not know what she was doing. No matter what happens in our republic, that flag should wave to show the glory of this nation in the honored brave who gave their lives for democracy.

Never draw in the American flag. Let it stand for the best, as it always does, upon all occasions, and as it did on the day of the peace parade, no matter how one may apologize for the makeup of that parade.

Free Uniforms

To the Friend of the People:

Why should not boy and girl scouts be furnished with free uniforms when in the service of the government during war or peace times?

Privates and non-commissioned officers of the United States Army got their uniforms free during the World War.

They are getting them now. We do not complain of this. Boy and girl scouts are rendering valuable service and protection to the life of a community at critical times in many instances.

We are simply asking for more consideration from the Federal and State governments.

Hard to Be Optimistic

To the Friend of the People:

The other day, at noon, I went into King's Chapel. I heard a preacher say that everyone should be an optimist. I began to think of myself. I have been a waiter, and lately, on account of a long illness, have been unable to work. I could do light work, but this is hard to find. I am obliged going through the streets without an overcoat. My shoes are giving out and held together by patches that I have placed there. I am an educated man, but drifted years ago into being a waiter or waiter. I cannot be an optimist when I look at my condition.

Poor Saleswoman

To the Friend of the People:

My wife and I went into a department store to buy a few articles. Among them we wanted a particular kind of cloth. At the counter a young saleswoman was in charge. She was rather slow to show the goods. She was more particular in keeping them in good shape than in selling them. If that woman had taken down the goods from the shelves, instead of insisting that they were the same as those on the counter, she would have made a good sale. She was not psychologically trained to sell goods.

Understand China

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

By Elsie Robinson

A PAIR of sparrows nested on my roof this year. They were good American citizens—energetic, happy, chattering and bustling about their little home from morning to night. From the first, the youngsters were Live Wires. They were Ma and Pa Sparrow to a frazzle rustling for the menu and grew by leaps and bounds like young balloons.

Then came the proud day when, for the first time, they perched on the edge of the nest and viewed the horizon with delighted eyes. No joyous young human adventurer was ever more eager to be up and at it than were those baby sparrows with their pudgy little bills and diminutive tails. An appealing picture.

But there was no sentimental weeping for Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow. Those eager flutterings of fledging wings had but one significance to them—IT WAS TIME THOSE KIDS WERE HUSTLING FOR THEMSELVES.

What a pity that we human parents have forgotten all we knew when we were first cousins to the sparrows?

Billy's twenty-two. He has worked since he was seventeen. He's earning as much as Dad is now. He has a job in the city and commutes. Forty minutes every morning it takes to go to his work—forty minutes every night he spends in coming back. And when he comes back he leaves all his friends in the city.

Billy wants to take a room in a Bachelor's hotel in the city. He wants to be near his Gang. They're a good Gang, lively, healthy, ambitious youngsters, mostly in his own line—auto salesmen. Several of them are married. Billy would like to sit around in the married homes at night like the other fellows do. He'd like to marry himself. BUT—

Ma and Pa say it's his duty to stay at home and help pay the expenses. Pa might be won over, but Ma cries and takes on terrible when he suggests leaving. So Bill stays at home. Every day he seems more and more out of the Gang—out of the world.

Twenty years from now Bill is going to be one of those horrible, flabby, fussy old he-maids unless someone gives him a powerful shove from the nest. PRONTO!

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By Helen Rowland.

MY Daughter, the Fool hath said in her heart, "Blessed are the divorced"

"For doth not a divorcee enjoy all the profits of matrimony—even experience and alimony and 'Mrs.' upon her name—and none of the boredom?

"Alas, Harold was a bright and shining light as a lover, but as a husband he is duller than a November morning.

Helen Rowland

Yet, I charge thee, my Daughter, think twice before thou partest from thy spouse! For, in one or two great things, an husband may be a trial and a dispensation; but, in all in all the little things, he is an ever present comfort!

Lo, she misseth, not so much his brilliant repartee at dinner, as the rustle of his newspaper and the morning spat at breakfast.

She misseth the borrowing of his handkerchiefs and his safety razor and his patent shoe-horn.

And she saith in her heart, "Alas, Alas! What am I, but a lone and uncherished floating rib,—with not even a reliable watch and a shoehorn to comfort me?"

For verily, verily, a man in the house may be an affliction to the spirit and a sharp file to the nerves, but an house without a man in it is full of emptiness!

LOOKING A THOUSAND YEARS HENCE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PROFESSOR A. M. LOW, the distinguished British scientist, in his book, "The Future," speculates on what will happen in a thousand years.

Although anybody can speculate and there is no limit to the imagination, Professor Low insists that his speculations are based upon natural laws and their legitimate outcome.

He says that in the future men's and women's clothes will be very much alike. They will both wear one-piece garments adaptable to the reception of radio waves.

They will take their nourishment from central reservoirs merely by pressing a button and receiving their food through tubes. Almost all goods will be made artificially.

Sleep as we now know it will be a thing of the past. Men will be refreshed by electrical energy.

When men and women dance in the future it will be a very pleasant and novel sensation, as they will receive forces in plenty from the mutual contact.

A thousand years from now everybody will be bald. People have hair in proportion as they approach our ancestors and are nearer barbarism. Hair tends to decrease with civilization, and in the future it will entirely disappear. Men and women will be wholly bald.

Transportation will be entirely by airships which will have wings adapted to the reception of the energy necessary to propel them. They will attain a tremendous speed and cross the ocean in an hour or so. Collisions or accidents will be very rare.

Scientists will do away with cold weather, so that men will be less concerned about the weather than they are now.

Very many diseases have already been banished and within a thousand years all will be banished and it will be a healthier race.

The citizen at home will take his lunch through a tube, and pressing an electric button what he wants to eat will flow at once into his mouth.

Wireless sight, or television, will be improved until it is commonplace.

These are some of the predictions of science.

THE FISH'S ANCESTOR AND MAN'S

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE evolution storm, after dying down a little, is pushing other and more formidable looking thunderheads above the horizon. If it is a "disgrace" to a man to be related in descent to apes and monkeys, who, though homely, are quite intelligent, what can be said of his ancestral connection with fish, which, to be sure, are often handsome, but whose intelligence is painfully low.

For evolutionists there is, of course, nothing new in the idea of tracing the line of the backboned animals, the crown of whose kingdom is worn by man, to some alliance between the earliest forms of fish and the preceding "invertebrates," such as the mollusks.

Fresh Impetus

But a fresh impetus seems to have been given to the investigation of this excessively ancient "missing link" by the discovery amidst the arctic frosts of remote Spitsbergen of a deposit of the rarely found fossils of the creature called "ostracoderm," which ceased to live on the earth away back in the carboniferous era, and which is believed to have been a transition form of animal between the invertebrate and the fish.

Professor William Patten of Dartmouth College has undertaken a study of these Spitsbergen fossils, by which he hopes to find conclusive evidence of man's ancestral relation to even the progenitors of the ostracoderms and to trace the origin of the mysterious "ductless glands" back to spider-like animals from which ostracoderms and fishes are descended.

Professor Patten has said: "To the biologist the real 'missing link' in animal evolution is not between man and apes, but between vertebrates and inverterbrates. The genesis of practically every system of great organs in man can be traced in various ways, without serious question, to corresponding organs in the fishes.

Moreover, three of the oldest and most important organs of man from a medical standpoint are the pineal gland, the pituitary organ and the thyroid. They apparently have essentially the same structure and functions in all back-boned animals from man down to the fishes.

If we can prove that the ancestors of the ostracoderms were spider-like animals, as I believe we can, the homologues of these mysterious organs can be identified in living invertebrates, such as modern scorpions and the horseshoe crab.

It would then be possible for experimental biologists and medical men to learn something definite about their history and initial functions that should be of great importance in the treatment of the diseases in man due to abnormalities of the ductless glands."

Think of going back to the spider-like ancestor of the old-haunted ostracoderm to study the original nature and functions of the ductless glands, those enigmatical organs which seem, in some inexplicable manner, to control the life and destiny of man, the "child of all the ages!"

How far more wonderful is this evolutionary account of the long, upward climb of organic life on our globe, until in the human form, it sets foot upon a starry peak, than is the old legerdemainic story of a sudden creation, without ancestry, without filiation, from a handful of brown dust! It is science against the Arabian Nights.

Seize Upon It

Instead of combatting the doctrine of evolution it would seem that theologians should seize upon it as an indispensable auxiliary in the present age. It does not, in any manner, contradict religion or forbid the worship of God: it only reveals the falseness of certain man-made conceptions of God and His methods.

The inspirations of true religion have varied from age to age in accordance with the intellectual and moral advance of man. We sacrifice neither oxen, nor lambs, nor human children nor the aliers of God today, but were not these superstitious abominations tolerated and even prescribed by the same "inerrant, inspired, authority" that is now depended upon by the fundamentalists in their fight against modern science?

Whoever will read thoughtfully, looking between the lines, the opening chapters of Genesis, will see that even the writers of that book knew that they were only drawing pictures for immature minds. It was primeval cosmogony, not essential religion.

HOW DO YOU GAUGE YOUR EARNING CAPACITY?

Like the majority of men there is probably some other man whose course you have taken as a route for you to follow.

Whither leadeth this man?

If upward, very good; but if jogging along in the same old way, you are going to fail into the same old rut as he.

This does not mean that you will go into the discard, but it does mean that you are not making as much of yourself and your advantages as you ought with your talents.

You wonder how some men make a big sum of money in a few hours.

With more recreation than you take, they excel you in earning capacity and you wonder how and why.

You do not consider that they may be especially well fitted to their profession, in fact have a talent for it that you don't possess.

It would be foolish for you to try to gain a place such as they have gained in their particular sphere.

But isn't it a fact that it is the recreational time which appeals to you instead of what the man does?

Aren't you "Johnny after the soft job?"
